FLOOD MENACE ALONG LOWER FRASER GROWS

Waters Still Rise at Most Interior Points; Storms Claim First Victim; Fear Voiced Sumas Dikes May Give Way; In North Skeena Flood Is Easing

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 3.—Riverside farmers watched tensely today as the flood-swollen waters of the Fraser pressed against the dyke system and threatened to break bounds in the rich southeast corner of British Columbia.

Bruce Dixon, dyke inspector at New Westminster, said the dykes at Nicomen Island and Sumas were still holding, but might give way if the river should rise further. The river, higher than it has been in thirty-three years, was twenty inches above the danger mark.

Meanwhile the northern Skeena, which washed away Indian villages and left scores homeless in the last three days, began receding. Water still covered the low-lying villages, however, and railway tracks in some sections were under eight feet of water.

Prince Rupert could communicate with the outside world only by wireless and points farther inland were cut off completely.

Neither government officials in Victoria nor railway representatives could estimate the damage. The Canadian National Railway had scores of emergency crews working in the Skeena River district, but all traffic there was at a standstill.

No casualties were reported.

HOMES EVACUATED.

At Agassiz, about seventy-five miles from the mouth of the Fraser, families were forced to vacate their homes as water washed over dykes and flooded farms. The Agassiz municipal council commandeered boats to rescue isolated families. Five washouts were reported on the highway linking Agassiz with Chilliwack.

E. Webb, district chief engineer of the Dominion Government water-power department at Vancouver, said conditions in the Fraser and Columbia valleys were critical.

"The Fraser and Thompson Rivers have not reached their peaks yet," he said. "Water is still rising in the upper Columbia and at Trail, where the river has reached the thirty-seven-foot mark, the peak will not be reached for several days."

Mr. Webb said the Columbia today reached nineteen feet at Nicholson, near Golden, B.C., and twenty-eight feet at Arrowhead.

BOY LOST LIFE

Yesterday fifteen-year-old Keith Berkeley was struck by lightning and killed while on his way to bring in his father's herd of cattle at Collierville, near Merritt.

RAIN ADDS TO STREAMS

At Kamloops the swollen Thompson River was augmented by close to an inch of rain that fell yesterday during an electrical and rainstorm. Unestimated damage was done as field crops east of the city were levelled by hail.

Crews of men labored at Revelstoke in the southern interior, where the Columbia River left its banks, inundating considerable acreage and threatening the Revelstoke power-house.

Port St. John, B.C., June 3.—Ferry service has been discontinued and all vehicular traffic across the Peace River here stopped with the river rampaging at the highest level in many years.

An improvement in flood conditions in the Skeena area was reported at noon today by the Provincial Police road department along with word very few white people in the Hazelton region were in serious distress.

The report to Victoria stated the Skeena had fallen one foot at Mile 65, near Salva, and a further drop was expected as the weather turned cooler.

At Hazelton the flood was subsiding and salvage work was under way. Very few white people were in distress, but a large number of Indians were homeless and dependent on local relief, the Provincial Police report said.

Reports from Prince George said the rise in the Fraser River at that point had been lessening during the last twelve hours, having been only one-quarter inch per hour.

Twenty families have moved out of the east end and Cache so far. C.N.R. train No. 198 eastbound managed to get through to McBride last night.

An attempt was being made this morning to reach Salva, east of Prince Rupert, by rowboat, and at 10 o'clock the party had reached a point four miles from its objective.

BOY LOST LIFE

Toronto, June 3 (Canadian Press).—Leonard Labine, seventeen-year-old son of Gilbert Labine, prominent Canadian mining man, was killed today when he fell from a bicycle under the trucks of a street car.

WHEN NEW YORK WELCOMED SUPERLINER QUEEN MARY

First picture of the event received in Victoria, the above view shows the giant new British steamship Queen Mary as she steamed along the New York waterfront Monday to her wharf after her maiden voyage from England, on which fog caused her narrowly to miss breaking the French liner Normandie's speed record. As the photo was taken 750,000 people lined along the shores watched and scores of vessels in the harbor sounded their whistles in salute. Today preparations were being rushed for the sailing of the Queen Mary Friday on her first eastward crossing of the Atlantic.

BOOKS CLOSED ON NEW ISSUE

Dominion Loan of $20,000,000 Is Heavily Over-subscribed, Ottawa Reports

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 3.—Subscription books for the new issue of thirty-year 3½ per cent Dominion Government bonds, opened this morning, were closed at noon, eastern daylight time, with the offering heavily oversubscribed.

The issue was limited to $20,000,000 and, selling at 99, will yield approximately 3.30 per cent.

It was too early to make any report on the other phase of today's bond offering, the invitation to holders of some $187,000,000 of bonds maturing this year to convert either to the thirty-year bonds or a four-year issue at 1½ per cent selling at 99.50 to yield approximately 1.63 per cent.

Books for conversions were opened at the same time and will remain open at the discretion of Finance Minister Dunning.

The loan is being handled by the Bank of Canada through branches of all chartered banks and recognized bond houses.

Shingles Good After Seventy-four Years

The B.C. forest branch today produced material evidence of the durability of British Columbia cedar shingles.

Half dozen hand-made shingles used in the construction of the British fort on San Juan Island, seventy-four years ago, have been obtained by forestry officials. They were part of a building torn down two years ago and after lying in a basement since then are today still waterproof and sound.

They will be turned over to the B.C. Shingle Bureau in Vancouver to be used as an exhibit in advertising B.C. shingles.

Budget "Leak" Funds Returned

Alfred Bates Returns to London Insurance Companies Money He Claimed When British Taxes Increased

Canadian Press

London, June 3.—Alfred Bates, advertising agency head, today sent to his insurance brokers cheques covering the amount of money he had claimed in connection with insurance he placed against increased taxes in the budget brought down last April.

The three-man tribunal which investigated the budget leakage found Bates was one of the two persons who made use of "unauthorized information" regarding the budget "for purposes of his private gain."

Bates asserted he had no desire to profit from the insurance in view of the budget tribunal's report. He emphasized at the same time he adhered to the evidence he gave before the tribunal. The cheques he sent to the insurance brokers included brokers' commissions, but the amount of the premiums was deducted.

The advertising agency head denied Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, former colonial secretary, had given him any information concerning the budget secrets prior to April 21 when it was made public.

City Should Show Federal Government It Has Cast Aside Indifference, Says Candidate; Duties Bar Movie Studios Here, Says Clearhue

"The issues in this election are: What does Victoria need? What does Victoria want? If you send an opposition member to Ottawa it is an indication that Victoria is still indifferent and doesn't want anything done. If you endorse the government candidate it is an indication you are ready to throw aside this indifference and that you want a man who will get something done."

This was the way C. J. McDowell, Liberal candidate in the Victoria federal by-election, summed up the issues in an address to Equilmalt Liberals at the Rex Theatre last night. He was given three cheers as he concluded on this note.

J. F. Mesher was chairman, and J. B. Clearhue, Mrs. Nellie McClung and C. E. Whittier-Griffiths were the other speakers.

Mr. McDowell opened his remarks with an assurance in reply to statements of Dr. Toimie, that if he went to Ottawa he would be able to find his way around.

"It won't take me two years to find the departments I am interested in," as Dr. Toimie suggested, "I'll find them within one month, and may also discover things Dr. Toimie never did find out," he said.

The newspapers each day were recording how the Mackenzie King government was carrying out its pre-election promises. Their policies had not been subject to criticism, and it was therefore apparent that the national issues had been settled, leaving only local Victoria questions to be decided.

ESQUIMALT'S INTERESTS
Esquimalt, he maintained, was perhaps more interested directly in this than the city itself, because it existed to a large extent on three federal institutions, the military headquarters, the naval base and the drydock. Naturally it was in the best interests of Esquimalt people to be represented at Ottawa by a member on the government side.

P. R. BENGOUGH ON COMMISSION

Representative of Labor Is Named by Government on Directing Body

The representative of employees on the B.C. government's health insurance commission will be Percy R. Bengough, senior vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Premier Pattullo announced the appointment today.

Mr. Bengough served on the hearings committee, which conducted a province-wide investigation on health insurance last week. He has been prominent for years in the labor movement in this province and nationally.

The government shortly will complete the health insurance commission with the choice of an appointee representing employers, the Premier said.

These two members will act with Allan Peebles, chairman, and Dr. W. T. Barrett, vice-chairman.

The chairman and vice-chairman will serve full time. The other members are part-time appointees and will receive $1,000 a year remuneration.

Considerable work has already been done by the senior officers of the commission in preparing the way for the health insurance scheme which is expected to go into operation about November.

LEAGUE MAY MEET JUNE 22

Date for Assembly Discussion of Italy Tentatively Set

Associated Press
Geneva, June 3.—Officials of the League of Nations said tonight, June 22, had been tentatively chosen as the date for a meeting of the Assembly to discuss all angles of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

They said the Assembly session, requested by Argentina, had not yet actually been convoked, but preparations were being made with June 22 in mind.

THOUSANDS CHEER AS HAILE SELASSIE ARRIVES IN LONDON

Extra Police Hold Back Shouting Throngs at Waterloo Station as Negus Completes Exile Trip

London, June 3.—Huge crowds gave Haile Selassie a great ovation today as the Ethiopian Emperor completed a journey to exile from Addis Ababa.

Haile Selassie fled from his country in the face of Italy's successful invasion in April.

Thousands of spectators, held back by reinforced detachments of police, cheered repeatedly as the Negus arrived in a special railroad coach at Waterloo station from Southampton. The station was packed with throngs. Many of the spectators held up banners bearing messages of greeting. Traffic throughout the area was hopelessly tangled by the crowds.

When the Negus finally reached the street, the jam of crowds became so great patrol cars filled with extra police were sent to the scene to maintain order.

OFFICIALLY RECEIVED
Officially, Haile Selassie was received by O. C. Harvey, private secretary to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

A police patrol car preceded his automobile as he passed through the streets.

He was accompanied on the train trip from Southampton by W. C. Martin, Ethiopian minister to London. He had voyaged from Gibraltar on the liner Orford.

To an address of welcome at the station, the ruler replied: "I have come to England confident I will be able to obtain justice."

UPPER HOUSE BARS B.N.A. ACT CHANGE

By Majority of Forty Senate Declines to Concur With Commons in Request to British Parliament to Amend Canada's Constitution So Provinces Will Have Right to Impose Indirect Taxation; Majority Made Up of Conservatives

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 3.—By a majority of forty votes the Senate this afternoon adopted the report of its banking and commerce committee recommending non-concurrence in portions of the proposed joint parliamentary resolution to Westminster which would confer powers of indirect taxation on the provinces by amending the British North America Act.

The vote was: For adoption fifty, against ten.

"Dead Husband" Brings Tangle

Found to Be Alive After Wife Marries for Second Time

Arguments regarding a husband living in a soldiers' home in New South Wales, who was declared by the courts to be dead, were heard in Supreme Court chambers this morning.

The matter came before Mr. Justice Murphy on an application for a ruling on costs regarding a protective application for an annulment of marriage.

It was claimed that Samuel Inglet, the man in question, married in Darlington, England, in 1904. With his wife he came to Canada and later joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force. After he came back from the Great War he and his wife became estranged and he went to New South Wales. When his wife died he came back here for seven years and then remarried. His second wife was secured and the wife married again.

The wife separated from her second husband who, in view of information since secured that leads him to believe the first husband is alive, now seeks an annulment of the marriage.

The judge ordered that security for costs already incurred should be borne by the second husband.

All Conservatives voted for adoption of the committee report. Three Liberals, Hon. E. S. Little, London; Hon. A. C. Hardv, Brockville; and Hon. J. J. Hughes, Prince Edward Island, voted with the Conservatives. The other Liberal senators in the chamber voted against.

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 3.—By a vote of 20 to 6 the Senate banking and commerce committee today recommended rejection of those portions of the joint parliamentary resolution to Westminster proposing to confer powers of indirect taxation on the provinces.

A motion by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, amending the resolution which had been moved by Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, to this effect was approved.

Before the vote on the amendment, the government leader stated he had no authority to accept it. The resolution was passed on consideration between the Dominion and the provinces, and the latter claimed the indirect taxation provision would enable them to balance their budgets, he said. "My hands are tied and in the name of the government I cannot accept it," he stated.

The resolution recently was approved by the Commons.

MEIGHEN'S AMENDMENT

The text of Senator Meighen's amendment was as follows:

"The committee begs to report, pursuant to a resolution made by the Senate, that an address to His Most Excellent Majesty the King, praying that he may graciously be pleased to give his consent to submitting a measure to the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to amend the British North America Act 1867 to 1900 and the British North America Act 1907, has been under its consideration, and the committee has heard representations bearing on that portion thereof respecting the conferring on the provinces of certain powers of indirect taxation, and recommends that such portion be not concurred in."

OBJECTIONS VOICED

Based on the expressed views of representative Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce across the Dominion, H. W. Morgan, as spokesman, presented eight objections on behalf of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce:

1. The present direct taxing powers of the provinces should be sufficient for all essential and proper provincial expenditures.

2. If the provinces were granted the right to tax indirectly retail sales and to tax this right, "protective" walls, tantamount to tariffs, could be raised between the provinces."

Industry Urged To Survey Field

Canadian Manufacturers' at Annual Convention in Quebec, Hear Suggestion More Government Intervention in Business Be Averted

Quebec, June 3.—Canadian industry was urged today by Louis Armstrong of Montreal in an address before the Canadian Manufacturers' Association annual convention here to solve its own problems so government interference in business might be avoided.

Speakers at a "round-table conference" dwell on the subject of legislation involving taxes, hours of labor and the unemployed, whom E. J. Freyseng of Toronto suggested should be put to work on a cash-pay basis.

The sooner the government puts these men to work and pays them cash," said Mr. Freyseng amid applause, "the sooner we will be relieved of the problem of taxation. Otherwise, we can expect our taxes to continue to increase."

"There have been mistakes, some serious, but surely it has been lack of action that has kept business on the defensive," said Mr. Armstrong. "We have left the action to be taken by those who know nothing about business but feel they should remedy some particular problems."

SURVEY URGED

"What we should do is make a survey of our own affairs; see if there is anything wrong and then remedy it ourselves. It has been said it is the entire population which constitutes the institution of business, so to injure business is to injure people and not some largely imaginary capitalistic class."

French Strikes Involve 350,000

Paris Hears It May Soon Face Shortage of Food Supplies

Associated Press
Paris, June 3.—A strike movement which embraced 350,000 workers and 300 factories rolled over France today as Socialists and Radical-Socialists prepared to take over the government. The capital itself was threatened with a shortage of food, milk, water and meat. Ice supplies were cut off, the workers in pumping stations threatened to quit and bakers considered striking. New developments preface designation of Leon Blum, Socialist leader, as Premier. The Paris milk supply was threatened as refrigerating and ice manufacturing plants started shutting down. The ice strike caused anxiety because of meat stock valued at 10,000,000 francs ($600,000) on hand in the packing plants. SERVICES STOPPING Industrial regions around Paris and in northern France showed indications of being paralyzed. Fears were expressed in the Chamber of Deputies lobbies railroadmen and postmen would go on strike tomorrow. Reinforced details of police were sent into the "red belt" of the Paris suburbs where the Communist Party has its particular power, to guard the factories there. Approximately 100,000 men, women and children, employed in the "red belt" factories prepared to sleep on their work benches tonight.

LIBERAL CAUCUS AT OTTAWA TODAY

It was learned, however, Mr. McGeer, heavily burdened with the combination of his work as a member of parliament and mayor of Vancouver, has not attended caucuses for some weeks and his absence today had no particular significance.

SEEKING NEW RAIL BUSINESS

Government Wants C.N.R. to Explore More, Howe Tells Commons Committee

Ottawa, June 3.—The House of Commons on railways and shipping yesterday heard a long account of the administration of Chairman C. P. Fullerton of the Canadian National Railways trustees and an explanation from Hon. C. D. Howe, Railways Minister, of the government's new railway policy.

After hearing from Mr. Fullerton his reasons for refusing to resign as chairman of the board of trustees and from Mr. Howe the reasons the government will replace the trustees by a board of directors, the committee went into camera to prepare a report it will present to the House, probably this week.

This procedure was taken as an indication the legislation now before Parliament authorizing removal of the three trustees and restoration of the director system will not be referred to the committee. The bill has not yet received second reading.

WIDE KNOWLEDGE DESIRED

Yesterday Mr. Howe expressed admiration for Mr. Fullerton, but declared the government felt the railways should be headed by a man thoroughly conversant with the railway problem, which Mr. Fullerton, through no fault of his own, was not. (He was formerly a judge.) The resolution had resolved itself into one where the question had to be asked if the government was willing to admit this railway system must cost the country $80,000,000 a year.

"I think not," said the minister. "It is the duty of the government to meet this and take the load off the back of the taxpayer."

NEW BUSINESS WANTED

In the direction of C.N.R. affairs, said Mr. Howe, there must be men who, like the directors of the Canadian Pacific, go out and get business for the system, while the head of the railway must be a man who knows the job better than anyone else in its employ.

"That is my position," said the minister. "I make no apologies for it. I thought it much fairer to tell Judge Fullerton the position as soon as I knew it."

VOTE

For the LIBERAL Candidate
C. J. McDowell
BECAUSE—

Vancouver Island is the only large area in Canada which has no member of the Liberal Party—now the governing party in Canada.

The C. C. F. has a member for Nanaimo Electoral District, comprising the Central portion of the Island.

An Independent represents Alberni, comprising the Western and Northern portion of the Island. Victoria Electoral District, comprising the Southern portion of the Island, has the opportunity, on June 8, to bring the Island back into line with majority thought in Canada by electing the Liberal Candidate.

The next three years are the great restoration years for Canada. Every meeting of the Liberal Party in its party councils at Ottawa will deal with restoration policies. The only way a party council can find out about the needs of Vancouver Island is from a Liberal Representative speaking as a Member of Parliament from Vancouver Island. By electing Mr. C. J. McDowell the people of Victoria and Vancouver Island will have direct membership in the party councils at Ottawa; and this is the most important political consideration of today.

TO DISTRIBUTE LOANS EVENLY

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 3.—Efforts were being made to distribute the benefit of loans under the Dominion Housing Act as widely as possible. Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, told the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question from Grant MacNeil, C.C.F., Vancouver North.

Mr. MacNeil asked if the government was aware that in some cases the loans were being refused outside Vancouver, and if anything could be done to obtain loans in answer to a question from Grant MacNeil, C.C.F., Vancouver North.

Mr. Dunning said there was nothing in department regulations to prevent loans being made in the outskirts of Vancouver or anywhere in Canada. The action in every case rested with the loan companies, which advanced the latest part of the money. The department was keeping in contact with municipalities and endeavoring to remove difficulties in the way of housing loans in all districts.

Women's League Meets in East

POLICEMAN LETS BANDIT CAR GO

Associated Press
New York, June 3.—Fleeing from a $50,000 holdup, the driver of a bandit car was stopped by a motor-cycle policeman yesterday and handed a summons for making an improper turn in traffic.

The policeman, unaware the machine had figured in a daring robbery less than five minutes before, and that its two occupants probably were armed, reprimanded the driver for allowing his operator's license to lapse, gave him a summons, and rode off. The automobile was found abandoned a few blocks away.

The victims of the holdup were Theodore Frank, assistant manager of the National Safety Bank and Trust Company, and Arthur Triver, a messenger, robbed at gunpoint by three men who stopped their car.

OLD AGE FUND REPORT SOON

U.S. Committee Investigating Townsend Activities to Submit Findings

Associated Press
Washington, June 3.—With new testimony that there was "chiselling and crookedness" in the handling of Townsend funds, the House of Representatives committee investigating the organization prepared yesterday to bundle up the voluminous evidence of two months of hearing and make its report.

Chairman Bell of the House investigating committee said one more open hearing probably would be held to pick up loose ends, and then the members would start work on a report to be submitted to the House.

Affidavits and records were read into the record yesterday concerning the activities of Edward J. Margrett, California Townsend leader. An affidavit made by Herman "Curley" Moore, one-time business associate of Margrett's, said they had operated first a cigar store and later a rug shop as "blinds" for a gambling game and bootlegging activities.

ORIENT TRADE DISCUSSIONS

New Policy Announced; Japanese Consul Confers With Australian Trade Minister

Canadian Press
Melbourne, Australia, June 3.—The Japanese consul-general conferred today with Sir Henry Gullett, Australia's assistant minister for trade, on the subject of trade between the two countries.

It was understood the Japanese consul-general attempted to establish a basis for a new treaty between the Commonwealth and Japan. Manchukuo's proposal to ban Australian flour also was discussed.

Sir Henry in a statement said: "Japanese goods, produced at a price with which it is impossible for others to compete, will not be allowed to overwhelm Australian interests. The government is inescapably convinced that other goods would follow the flood of others."

"Australia must look to Great Britain as a market for her primary produce, for which Japan is a most sparing customer, except for wool."

A new tariff policy, raising barriers against foreign goods and designed to divert import trade to Britain, was announced by the government last month.

FARM POLITICAL DEMANDS IN U.S.

Associated Press
Washington, June 3.—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, served notice today on both major political parties in the United States, his organization will demand recognition in the drafting of farm planks in the 1936 platform.

Grange officials indicated the organization may demand assurances the United States market would be reserved for the American farmer, clause in the reciprocal Trade Agreement Act would be repealed and a provision requiring all trade agreements to go before the Senate for ratification would be enacted.

Woman Thought Bee Man Lunatic

Associated Press
Trenton, N.J., June 3.—An excited woman's complaint that a demented man was dashing about her neighborhood was relayed to a police radio car.

She explained the man must be a lunatic because he went about with a bird cage on his head and a torch in his hands.

Back came the report from the police car: "Supposed demented man is bee-keeper. Five escaped and he equipped himself with headnet and smudge torch to recapture bees. He recovered five."

VOTERS' LISTS

Ottawa, June 3 (Canadian Press).—The House of Commons yesterday gave first reading to a bill to amend the Franchise Act, introduced by Hon. Fernand Blais, Secretary of State. It provides for the appointment of enumerators and the compilation of voters' lists for by-elections. It has nothing to do with the coming by-election in Victoria.

CASPIAN SEA LEVEL FALLING

Associated Press
Moscow, June 3.—Soviet scientists say they believe the Caspian Sea, world's richest source of caviar, is drying up. In Baku harbor, deep water port, a fortress has appeared.

The scientists say the battlements were constructed 800 years ago by Persian shahs as an outpost in the centuries of struggles between Russian and Persian armies. Long ago it sank far below the surface of the sea in an earthquake, but still the sturdy walls remain.

Austria Adopts Amnesty Plan

Leniency for Political Prisoners; Talk of Hapsburg Restoration

Associated Press
Vienna, June 3.—Amnesty for political prisoners as an indirect gesture of friendliness toward Germany was foreseen in a government order sent to prisons and concentration camps today for information about prisoners.

Leniency to the prisoners—especially 1,200 Nazis still being held—was interpreted as another step by Chancellor Schuschnigg's government to reach an understanding with Germany.

Paris, June 3 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Austria is definitely won to a Hapsburg restoration, the Echo de Paris declares today in an article by Pertinax. It generally well-informed commentator on foreign affairs.

The motive for the visit of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg to Italy, according to Pertinax, is to persuade the Duke of the practicality of a Hapsburg regime and to dismiss his hesitations over that prospect.

Hertzog Scores Versailles Pact

If League Fails, Civilization Will Be Ruined, He Says

Canadian Press
Capetown, June 3.—Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog yesterday termed the post-war Versailles Treaty "the world's greatest source of friction," and declared failure of the League of Nations would lead to destruction of civilization.

Speaking in the Senate in a debate on the League, he urged the necessity of revising the treaty, adding: "It was comes, this cursed treaty will be responsible."

The debate was on a motion by Dr. Thomas Visser, vice-president of the Senate, that the activities of the League be limited to the interests of world peace and the application of pacific measures. Dr. Visser charged the League, as constituted at present, with "hypocrisy and subservience" to Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia.

Dr. D. F. Malan, leader of the National Party, moved an amendment, that the League should convene a world conference and should itself be revised. He added that a plebiscite in any country in the world would result in a vote for peace.

General Hertzog expressed confidence the league would yet attain its high ideals, but its failure would lead to the destruction of civilization.

Concluding, Premier Hertzog said no one could condemn Great Britain for not disarming, because she was the only country which had done her best in this respect.

LIGHTNING KILLS BOY AND HIS DOG

Canadian Press
Meritt, B.C., June 3.—A bolt of lightning during a severe electrical storm yesterday killed fifteen-year-old Keith Berkeley and his collie dog as they trudged along a cowpath at Collettville, near here.

Keith, son of William Berkeley, a Collettville farmer, was out to bring his father's small herd of cows home. In the evening the cows straggled back to the Berkeley home. William, a younger brother, started out to search for Keith and found the bodies of his brother and the dog a mile distant.

No Two Offers On Bond Interest

If Holders Refuse to Accept Reduced Sum, Alberta Government Will Still Stand by Its Decision

Canadian Press
Edmonton, June 3.—If holders of Alberta securities refuse to accept the reduced interest rates authorized by an order-in-council passed last Saturday by the provincial government, they will not be paid the full interest rates specified on the bonds, according to Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer.

Mr. Cockroft was commenting yesterday evening on the order which provides for cutting in half payments on provincial securities for interest due on periods after June 1, and which says the provincial treasurer is empowered to offer, "and if accepted," to pay the bondholders the lower rates.

Lieutenant-Governor W. L. Walsh signed the order-in-council.

The words "and if accepted" do not mean that if the bondholders do not accept the lower rates, the provincial treasurer must pay the full rates. Mr. Cockroft emphasized.

Regarding reports trading of Alberta bonds had been removed from the London Stock Exchange, Mr. Cockroft stated only dealers would be affected and stressed the government was concerned only with the actual bondholders.

A satisfactory agreement with the holders was the government's goal, the provincial treasurer added.

"We expect to meet holders of Alberta bonds in a few days," he said, "and have a frank discussion and arrive at an arrangement agreeable not only to the holders, but to the government as well."

THREE ISSUES REMOVED

London, June 3.—Three sterling loans of the province of Alberta yesterday were removed from the official list of the stock exchange. The action followed Premier William Abernethy's announcement that the Alberta Government had decided to reduce its interest rates to 2½ per cent from an average of 5 per cent as from June 1.

No business was done in the bonds yesterday and no prices were available.

"And besides this, a start has been made on dealing with our greatest problem—unemployment," Mr. King promised to close the relief camps, and he is now closing them. Many men will be gainfully employed again under his public works and railroad works plans."

Referring to the candidates in the by-election, Mr. McLaughlin said that representation at Ottawa did not involve a public-speaking contest. It was said Mr. McLaughlin was not a good speaker, but it was not rhetoric which would solve the country's troubles.

BLAME GOSSIP FOR VIOLENCE

William Haines, Actor, and Los Angeles Group Is Attacked by Mob

Associated Press
Los Angeles, June 3.—A mob attack on William Haines, former movie actor, and a party of friends was attributed by Haines today to "false, malicious gossip" resulting from a friendly gesture toward a six-year-old boy.

The former "smart aleck" hero of the screen and four friends were beaten and chased out of a beach community by a crowd of about 100 persons Sunday night.

The actor's friend, Jimmy Shields, screen extra, gave the boy six cents and told him to go home, Haines said, and consequently "we were made the victims of a mob action that might have proved serious."

Authorities rejected application by Mrs. V. O. Walker for a morals complaint against Haines, and a "John Doe" charging her six-year-old son, James Walker, was mistreated by a man in the shore house Haines had rented for the season.

A sheriff's report yesterday said Haines was knocked down and both his eyes blacked, and Shields was cut and bruised severely.

Haines operates an antique and interior decorating shop in Hollywood. Today, Haines declared he did not know the reason for the mob's acts.

French Chamber Seats Contested

Paris, June 3.—The traditional demands for invalidation of candidates elected to the new Chamber of Deputies have reached forty.

Among the important members whose right to the seats is contested are the incoming Premier, Leon Blum; the president of the retiring chamber, Fernand Bouisson; Jean Chiappe, president of the Paris municipal council and deputy from Corsica, and the so-called renegade communist, Jacques Doriot.

STRONG LEAGUE MOVES URGED

Peace Council in Britain Recommends Calling World Conference to Buttress Geneva Body's Position

Associated Press
London, June 3.—A statement condemning Italy's "crime against the conscience of the world" was issued yesterday evening by the Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction, headed by Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George.

It appeals for a reassertion of the League of Nations' authority and suggests the calling of a new world conference to strengthen the League's position, along with these steps for Geneva to take:

1. Refuse to recognize Italy's annexation of Ethiopia.
2. Apply an oil sanction and prevent ships of League members from carrying goods to Italy and Italian ships to enter ports of League members.
3. Tighten up the control of credits to Italy.
4. Close the Suez Canal to cargoes of oil and poison gas materials.

The statement is more lenient toward Germany. It demands that Reichsmarschall Hitler's League peace proposals be "justly and honorably investigated" and calls for early consideration of Germany's territorial and economic grievances with a view to their alleviation or removal.

U.S. Minimum Wage Plans Are Barred

Associated Press
Washington, June 3.—President Roosevelt yesterday asserted that a majority of the Supreme Court had enunciated an interpretation of the constitution depriving both state and federal governments of any power to establish minimum wages.

Stressing the dissenting as well as the majority opinions in Monday's five to four decision invalidating New York's minimum wage law for women as conflicting with the constitutional right to enter into contracts, the chief executive said a no man's land where no government could function had been defined.

At the same time, he smilingly declined to be drawn into a discussion or whether, in the light of the series of Supreme Court decisions voiding New Deal laws, his administration could attain its objectives within the present framework of the constitution.

Alberni

Alberni, June 3.—Mrs. Lella Sadama, Alberni, announces the engagement of her second daughter, Louisa Winnifred Martin, to Leslie Howard Gibson, also of Alberni. The wedding will take place on June 30 at All Saints' Anglican Church, Rev. Glen Stevenson officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Newton, who have been the guests of Mrs. Newton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Blake, more at River Road for the last four months, returned on Friday to their home on Nootka Island, Esperanza Inlet.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wyllie had as guests for the week-end the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bourne of Vancouver, who went on to Victoria to spend a few days.

The annual picnic of the Alberni District High School was held at Parksville Saturday last. Besides swimming and other sports, the programme featured softball games with the Parksville High School, in which the Parksville players were victorious by a narrow margin. Arrangements for the picnic were under the supervision of the students' council, of which Jack Beveridge is president. W. Whiles of the teaching staff acted in an advisory capacity in drawing up the sports programme, while Miss Evelyn Hanes assisted in the organization of refreshments.

Sergeant Dunbar of the Provincial Police, who has been a patient at the West Coast Hospital for the last three weeks, is now convalescing at Kitale Lodge, Sproat Lake.

John Prescott was a week-end visitor from Franklin River, guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. H. Prescott, River Road.

Mrs. W. Latta was hostess at the tea hour on Friday, when the guests included Mrs. H. Carter, Mrs. B. O. Whiles and Mrs. D. McCall.

VICTORIA FIRST

WHEN THE ELECTORS OF THIS CONstituency go to the polls next Monday to choose their representative for the House of Commons
at Ottawa they should ask themselves these questions:

- Do we want a man who will support the government?
- Do we want a man who will make the fortieth member of the opposition?
- Do we want a man who will make the eighth member of the C.C.F.?

We are told that "the issue of political patronage
has been raised on behalf of the Liberal candidate."
The morning paper says that there is an admission that "the gospel of Liberalism is to discriminate against any constituency which fails to return a Liberal member to Parliament."

Ponder the questions set out above. We suggest that it would be much better to send Mr. McDowell down to Ottawa than it would be to send either Dr.
Tolmie or Professor Gordon.

Estimable gentlemen are the Conservative and C.C.F. candidates. Dr. Tolmie has had experience in federal and provincial public life. Professor Gordon has yet to win his political spurs.

We shall anticipate the suggestion that Mr. Mc-Dowell has yet to put M.P. after his name. It is admitted. After next Monday, however, there is every likelihood that he will be thinking about packing up his grips for Ottawa.

A NOBLE SOUL

THIS IS THE WEEK WHEN IT IS FITting to say something about the retirement of the Rev. John Antle. He responds to the title of "Captain" and is deserving of it. Starting out from Vancouver more than thirty years ago on a holiday cruise in a small boat equipped by sail, he and his son caught their first glimpse of the islands lying between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

As the travelers passed from one settlement to another, talking with loggers and ranchers, and studying the hard conditions, there was born in the skipper
of that small boat an earnest desire to do something to make life a little less stern for these pioneer people.
The upshot of this resolve was the foundation of the Columbia Coast Mission, of which Mr. Antle has been the moving spirit throughout all the intervening years.

As he hands over the helm to his successor, the Rev. John Antle has had the satisfaction of seeing the work grow from the one small boat of 1905 until there is today a fleet of three motor ships, three hospitals and a large staff of chaplains, doctors, skippers, engineers, nurses, etc., daily engaged in ministering to the physical, mental and spiritual needs of all who live on the great spread of British Columbia coastline and the islands adjacent thereto.

Not unnaturally, after such a life of service for the common good, there has been a widespread demand for a testimonial to Mr. Antle in recognition of the many years of devoted service. Vancouver and vicinity have already subscribed generously and it is thought that there are many friends and well-wishers of Mr. Antle and the Columbia Coast Mission residing in Victoria and Vancouver Island, who would like an opportunity of contributing to this fund.

This newspaper bespeaks liberal support for the service to which the Rev. John Antle has devoted so many years of his life. In another column of The Times full particulars are set forth—the offices to which subscriptions may be sent.

RESTORING THE BANK

UNDER FINANCE MINISTER DUN-
ning's change in the Bank of Canada set-up, through making a new capital stock issue, the federal government will own 51 per cent of the bank's stock,
will nominate a majority of the directors, will control the annual meeting through its majority voting power and control the bank's policy through a majority of the directors. Mr. Dunning thus makes effective a majority public ownership and government control, subject to parliamentary restraint, as pledged by Mr. Mackenzie King and his party in the last election campaign.

The 12,000 shareholders across the country, who took up the stock when it was offered, will not be disturbed in their holdings. Under the incorporation it was provided no one may hold more than $2,500 of stock in the bank. Actually the individual holdings average less than one-fifth of that.
The government might have eliminated these holders
by compelling them to sell their stock. But Mr.
Dunning recognized that he was dealing with an organization that was functioning and that the shareholders had invested in good faith.

As to the bank's ability to maintain its dividends to the small holders as well as pay on the new 5,100,000 shares, the report for the last year is reassuring. It shows profits of $764,228. To pay dividends to the existing shareholders, $239,000 was required. After setting aside $173,092 for rest fund and $5,951 for Civil Service fund there was left a sum of $346,184 which went into the treasury of the country through the Receiver-General. As profits were limited to 4½ per cent, the shareholders could not participate in such surplus earnings. These surplus earnings in themselves constituted a compelling reason for the change in control. It was asked, why this excess profit? As it was really a disguised tax on the people, why should a privately-owned institution have the right to levy taxation? Taxation is a prerogative of Parliament and any institution that levies taxation should be controlled by Parliament.

With the shareholders rested the right to select directors of the bank. In practice it was found that the shareholders were too widely scattered and their individual holdings too small to make it worth their while to go to Ottawa to attend meetings. What happened was that aggregations of big business and finance, with headquarters in Montreal, selected a slate, circulated it, and after an electioneering campaign elected directors from their own group. These directors were men inclined to the belief that Canada did not need a central bank and, at least, it should not be state-owned. The bank's control in this way was handed over to the representatives of the interests,
whose financial domination of the country the bank
was promoted to override.

This was modified, if not negated, the purpose of the bank, set out in the act of 1934, "to regulate credit and currency in the best interest of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit, to mitigate . . .
fluctuations in the general level of production, trade,
prices and employment . . . to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Basically, of course, these are functions of government, not of a private enterprise. Now Mr.
Dunning is restoring the control of the bank's functioning to the authority originally intended. He is implementing Mr. Mackenzie King's statement of policy before coming into power that "credit is a public matter not of interest to bankers only, but of direct concern to the average citizen. Once a nation parts with its control of currency and credit,
it matters not who makes the nation's laws, until the control of the issue of currency and credit is restored
to the government and recognized as its most conspicuous and sacred responsibility, all talk of the sovereignty of Parliament and of democracy is idle and futile."

A GOLF TIPP

AN INTERESTING POINT HAS
cropped up in the realm of British golf. In a recent $8,000 tournament, Henry Cotton, professional at a swaggar club in Brussels, Belgium, declared
after a poor second round of seventy-seven that it was "a waste of time to go through the qualifying rounds of the competition." He said:

"If it had been serious golf today my round
would have been the most unpleasant I have ever taken part in . . . it was sheer carelessness on the part of the gallery . . . it was, of course, a comparatively small one . . . the trouble was that the people who had presumably come to see me play simply would not stand still." The point which Cotton emphasizes is this:

"As it was a qualifying competition it did not matter much, but it probably was the cause of my partner, Jack Balestine, failing to qualify. It was all the more surprising because in Southport they are so keen on golf."

"At the thirteenth hole I said to myself 'What a fool you are to come all the way from Belgium to spend two days trying to avoid making an idiot of yourself by failing to qualify.'"

"For years now I have been first or second in this tournament and yet I have to prove my worthiness to play in the competition proper."

"If I win the open championship this year and thus establish my position beyond all question I will never again play in a qualifying competition apart from the open championship."

Those two stalwarts of British golf, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, agreed with Cotton's protest. "It is a ridiculous state of affairs that the leading players should be expected to spend two days qualifying," said Duncan. "We are liable to be partnered by a man who cannot break 90 and it is absolutely unfair to us. For a tournament like this at Southport some such principle like this should be adopted: That the leading thirty players in the tournament last year should be exempt from the qualifying stages."

Duncan and Mitchell argued that there is a growing feeling among the crack golfers that the present conditions are most unsatisfactory and that the leading players might decide at any moment not to play under existing conditions. Mitchell said that in his opinion there should be at least a $25 entrance fee charged for the open championship, which would be a sufficient deterrent against holidaymakers who had no chance of making a show. "In America," Mitchell added, "when we go over there we are automatically exempt from qualifying. When the Americans come over here they are forced to qualify with players who cannot return better scores than 90.
The whole thing is ridiculous, and almost an insult to our visitors."

Victoria next Monday should, in its own interests, vote Liberal.

is inclined to go off the "deep end" on the slightest provocation.

Loose Ends

You should read fast, but,
forgetting is more important.
—No one seems to remember that armies cost money—
Strange animals are seen at Lytton—And there are rumors about a whale.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

REMEMBERING

AN EXPERT, writing in The Christian Science Monitor, says that if you are a reasonably fast reader
you should be able to absorb 800 words, or four-fifths of an ordinary newspaper column, in a minute. If you are a fast reader, you should be able to take away 1,200 or 1,500 words in the same time—one minute per column or about five minutes (taking into consideration the headlines) for the whole front page. You can check up on that tonight and see how good you are at the simple art of reading.

While I doubt that many people can read as fast as the experts desire, on the other hand, our speed in forgetting what we have read is extremely satisfactory. It may take you five minutes to read a column in the newspaper, but I dare say you can forget it in a minute and a half at most. A man who spends half an hour poring over his newspaper has forgotten most of what he has absorb when he lays the paper down.
It is virtually all gone by next morning, and he is eager for another paper which he can forget with equal facility.

You have to be in the newspaper
business to realize the public's facility for forgetting. In his early stages the newspaperman will write some important piece of news, report some vital speech by a statesman and he will expect the public to remember it at least for a day or two. But a day later he can ask ten men of average intelligence what they thought about so-and-so and nine of them won't know what he was talking about.

This is very discouraging at first,
but you stop worrying about it after a while. If the public didn't forget so easily it might not want many papers the next night. And it is a great comfort to know, in a job like this, that you could reprint every word you wrote a year ago and no one would suspect it. Indeed, you often write the same idea over again
at a week's interval without suspecting it yourself.

When you think what the news is these days, you realize that while the ability to remember is useful at times, nature was wise and merciful
when she made us able to forget so easily.

WHO PAYS?

MR. BENNETT has come out for stronger military defences in Canada and says we must awaken to our responsibilities as a nation. Mr.
King replies that Canada, to oppose militarism, should not mili-tarize itself. He is against jingoism and thinks that our safety lies in agreement and understanding with other countries.

It is useful, whatever your ultimate views may be, that these higher questions are at last getting into practical politics where they must be settled in the end. In the meantime, so far as I have seen, none of the prophets who want Canada to embark on a large military programme have said anything about the cost of it, or who shall pay the bill. They have certain extremely sound arguments on their side, but building ships, barracks and airplanes is only half the programme.
The other half is finding the money.
The advocates of military preparedness, to be honest, must tell us
the money can only come from a tremendous increase in federal taxation
in a budget already unbalanced by $100,000,000 a year.

The question is whether Canadians want to pay any more taxes when the national debt, most of it created by the last war, is still increasing every day. I doubt it. Whether they should be willing, whether it would be wise to pay them, is another question.

The British people are better taxpayers than we are, but we seem to get here a rather exaggerated idea of their present enthusiasm for military preparation. According to a dispatch in the highly reliable New York Times, the British Army is short 10,000 men in an establishment of 128,000, and during the year 26,500 men are due to leave the colours. The territorial army, which is entrusted with the anti-aircraft defence of Britain numbers 125,744,

but still is short 47,000. Recruiting,
it is stated, is so difficult that "it looks now as if nothing short of conscription will bring the army and part-time auxiliaries up to their arranged strength. . . . No two authorities are agreed on what is wrong
except that soldiering is not popular in Britain. . . . Despite hundreds of thousands of unemployed willing to accept almost any job offered to them, the army cannot fill its ranks."

DOGS

THAT was a strange and moving story from Lytton—the story of the two mongrel dogs marooned and starving on a shelf of rock until a couple of men risked their lives to rescue them. No other animal but a man would bother to rescue two specimens of another species in this fashion. Other animals are far too logical. Man, the illogical, will kill off his own species with military and economic weapons by the million and then he will risk his life to save a couple of mangy curs who are no use whatever.

It is illogical and absurd, but perhaps it is just this lack of logic, this absurdity, that has enabled the human animal to rule the other animal. He is the maddest, most destructive and most dangerous of all species, but he does have flashes of inspiration, occasionally. The picture of two poor section-men crawling on a rope down the grim canyon of the Framnes to save a pair of dogs is a perfect picture of this weird genius which, despite everything, is still the only hope in the world.

WHALE

GUESS WHAT," said the little boy
from next door outside my window just now. "We went and saw the whale. It was on a railway train."

"It was so big you could stand in its mouth," said his sister.

"Who wants to stand in its mouth?" said he.

"Jonah once was in a whale's mouth, and in his tummy even,"
said she.

"Was not," said he.

"I guess I should know," said she.
"He's in the Bible about Jonah."

"Silly," said he. "Why don't I know
all the Joneses? Billy and Ted and Dirk. Why, they haven't even seen a whale, because they haven't got the money to get in to see it."

"Don't mind my brother," said she
to me. "He hasn't read the Bible.
Anyway, Jonah was in the whale's tummy all right."

"I bet," said he, "it made Jones
tick."

"I bet," said she, "it made the whale tick. In fact, it did. That's how Jonah got out. It was lucky for him the whale was sick."

"I bet," said he, "that he kept away from whales after that. But this one on the railway train won't eat you because it's dead. It smells like it's been dead a long while. I had a bullhead up at the lake once and it smelled like that. That's how I know it was dead. But it was smaller."

"I wonder," said she, "if this is the same whale that had Jonah in his tummy. I bet when Jonah got out he was hungry."

"I bet he had to wash his face and his ears ever," said he. "I bet he went to the barber's and got some perfume like he puts on me."

"That," said she, "smells worse than the whale."

FROM MR. SINNOTT

To the Editor:—The present by-election is quite an unimportant matter in Dominion politics. No matter what the result, the standing of the parties in the House of Commons will not be appreciably affected. If Mr. Mackenzie King has another supporter added to his large majority, in the person of Mr. Mc-Dowell, he will only be mildly pleased. Should Dr. Tolmie lose the seat, Mr. Bennett, his leader, will only be mildly disappointed. Mr. Woodworth, with his corporal's guard fully appreciates that he would require at least fifty King Gordons before the C.C.F. movement becomes a real factor in federal affairs.

This, however, is quite an important by-election for Victoria. Victoria is what she is today largely as a result of her good fortune in the past to have been represented in Ottawa by supporters of the government in power. Dr. Tolmie was very largely instrumental in giving us the Drydock and the Outer Wharf. They came, perhaps, twenty years too soon
but their construction furnished employment at the time and ultimately,
with the development of commerce,
will prove their value to this city.
Now the present government at Ottawa appears to be destined for a long lease of political life and Dr.
Tolmie would require to outlive the duration of that government before there would be the slightest chance of his being able to help the citizens of Victoria.

Mr. McDowell, on the other hand, if elected, can give Victoria that practical assistance which none of the other candidates can promise for years to come. If ever, he can expedite the construction of the Marine Building and, procure for this city many advantages. This perhaps is a selfish argument, but so far as our local affairs are concerned, it is at least practical. All the votes King Gordon can gather will amount only to a feeble endorsement by a few people of an economic illusion. A vote
for Dr. Tolmie is a vote for a shattered
political party and the continuance
of the impotent advocacy of Victoria's case at Ottawa. It is therefore surely in the interests of our people to vote Liberal at this particular election regardless of their political predilections. The issue this time is purely local.

P. J. SINNOTT.

POLITICAL NOTICES ON POLES

To the Editor:—The intelligent people of Victoria evidently will not tolerate the placarding of poles during the hours of slumber, as evidenced by the way in which these notices have been almost entirely obliterated in most cases. By a few people of an economic illusion. A vote
for Dr. Tolmie is a vote for a shattered
political party and the continuance
of the impotent advocacy of Victoria's case at Ottawa. It is therefore surely in the interests of our
people to vote Liberal at this particular election regardless of their political predilections. The issue this time is purely local.

FAIRPLAY.

CANNOT UNDERSTAND

To the Editor:—I wonder if Dr.
Simon Tolmie would lose sight of professional politics for a while. Why does he want to get into more trouble?
When he had his chance, what did he give us in the four or five years that he reigned. The people of today want, and what is more, are determined to secure, something more than "blah."

ways. Upon reaching my destination
I discovered that my clothes were ruined. They and my hair were black with coal dust.

REV. J. ANTLE ENDS MINISTRY

Founder of Columbia Coast
Mission Closes Thirty-one
Years of Service

After thirty-one years in one of the most unusual and most valuable ministries in the world, Rev. John Antle, founder and moving spirit of the Columbia Coast Mission, this week retires from active service.

Rev. Alan Green has been appointed his successor.

It was in 1905 that the sea-going mission began its work in the coastwise waters of British Columbia. At that time the mission had one small boat. Now it operates a fleet of three motor vessels—the Columbia, the John Antle and the Rendezvous—and three hospitals. In addition there is a large staff of chaplains, doctors, nurses, engineers and nurses attached to the mission.

This growth was to a large extent the direct result of the work of Mr. Antle, who is known intimately to people of every standing in all the island and coast communities of the seaways of British Columbia, and by reputation to the whole Anglican world.

Some eight years ago, when the need of a second vessel was felt, Mr. Antle went to England in person, and by his efforts secured the gift of a second craft which was named in his honor.

BIRTH OF MISSION

The mission had its birth in a holiday cruise made by Mr. Antle and his son thirty-two years ago. Sailing among the Gulf Islands in their small boat they talked with loggers, fishermen and ranchers, and there was born in Mr. Antle an earnest desire to help the physical, mental and spiritual needs of these people in unfrequented places.

Mr. Green, Mr. Antle's successor, is known to the remote communities as the skipper-chaplain of the trim Rendezvous. His knowledge of Coast waters and of the people who live along their shores fit him well to the difficult task of filling the place of one of the best-loved and most admired men in British Columbia.

Friends of the retiring skipper in Victoria and the island are joining together and subscribing for a testimonial for Mr. Antle in recognition of his life of service. Contributions will be received by Colonel A. W. R. Wilby, chairman, and J. Alvin, secretary of the Victoria committee of the mission, and should be addressed in care of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

WORKING FOLK NOT AS HAPPY

"Outside of the large firms which look after their employees, many employers in England take advantage of the present situation and get their labor in the cheapest market," said Harold M. Diggon, well-known business man of Victoria, who returned this week from his first visit to England in thirty-five years.

Mr. Diggon noticed the working people of London did not look quite as happy as the working people of Canada and the United States. He pointed out the expense of living in London and the long trips the working people must take to and from their homes, and the cost of travel.

"The south of England seems very prosperous," Mr. Diggon said, "because of the great housing schemes in the suburbs of London and the new defence plan. The houses are built without basements and without central heating plants. This rather amazed me. The general impression there seems to be that central heating means extreme heating."

The defence plan has helped industry in all channels, Mr. Diggon said, although a large number of the working people were paid less than they were entitled to.

"But war is far from the thoughts of the English people," Mr. Diggon said. "If a plebiscite were taken tomorrow it would be for peace. The people demand peace because they want to prevent war rather than seek war."

In London Mr. Diggon attended the luncheon to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to England, arranged at the Hotel Victoria under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, under the chairmanship of Sir Hewitt Sklansky.

Several British Columbians, including Chris Spencer and W. H. Malkin of Vancouver were in attendance, as was W. A. McAdam, acting agent-general for British Columbia, whom Mr. Diggon said was extremely popular and was doing excellent work for this province.

At this luncheon Mr. Massey responded to the toast "Anglo-Canadian Trade." "Our Guests" was responded to by Malcolm Macdonald, secretary of state for the Dominions. Mr. Diggon went across to the continent, visited in Belgium and the south of France, and also took a tour of the trenches and Canadian war graves and memorials in France.

He sailed home via the Panama Canal on the Danish motorship Europa.

Only On Island Are Crops Good

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 2.—Dominion Bureau of Statistics today issued the first telegraphic crop report of the year and described the outlook for spring crops as "rather unfavorable" throughout Canada, but good on Prince Edward Island and Vancouver.

"In southern and central regions of the prairie provinces, unusually high temperatures and lack of rain during the last ten days of May gave grain prospects a definite reverse, and there has been only a slight correction. In northern regions of Manitoba and Alberta the fine weather and high temperatures were of benefit in hastening the completion of seeding in stimulating germination and early growth."

"Apart from Vancouver Island, crop prospects are somewhat below average in British Columbia. Spring-sown crops are now growing rapidly, but considerable winter injury to pastures, fruit and berries is reported."

WILL CONTEST COUNCIL SEAT

Charles Halthwaite, police commissioner, was unanimously nominated to carry the banner of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association at the by-election to be held on Saturday, June 13, to fill the seat on the municipal council vacated by Clarence L. Pullen, who sailed for England on Monday.

The nomination took place at a meeting in St. Paul's Parish Hall only after the commissioner had three times declined to stand. It was at the unanimous request of the ratepayers that he consented to the nomination.

Philip S. Going, who has held a council seat for many years in the past, has announced his intention of contesting the seat.

Amateur Riding Meet Planned

Duncan, June 3.—At a meeting of the Cowichan Riding Club, arrangements were made for the "amateur race meet" to be held July 1, in conjunction with the Duncan Sweet Pea Festival. The club has greatly improved the track which now covers five furlongs instead of three, and the jumping course is also in much better shape. On July 1 there will be three flat races and two steeplechases. The judges will be H. A. Rhodes and Bateman Hope and starter, Eddie Evans. Commander Blingby, Victoria, has consented to be steward of the course, and Eric Springett will be clerk of the course, with W. R. Linton in charge of the paddock.

The C. G. Palmer Chapter (Junior) of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire held a successful garden fete at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Watson, Saturday afternoon. Miss Russell donated a cake which was in charge of Lorna Downman and won by Mrs. A. Anderson. The candy stall was managed by Barbara Whitcome and Marie Irvine. Plants were sold by Melba Anderson and Ruth Oldfield, and the popular "Bingo" was run by Priscilla Hoey and Anne Whitcome. Clock golf was also popular, in charge of Mary Watson and Felicity Alderley. After a tie between Mrs. F. R. Gooding and Mrs. H. N. Watson, Mrs. Gooding won on the play-off.

Mrs. H. P. Swan arranged an amusing "treasure hunt" under the auspices of a committee of St. Edward's Parish, and held on Sunday afternoon. Tea was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conidine, Maple Bay, where the guests assembled and were started on their search. Twenty-five articles had to be collected and returned within one and one-half hours. The winners A. Colford and A. Martinich. Hector Marsh acted as time-keeper and Mrs. Alex Ray was in charge of the tea arrangements, the lucky tea ticket being held by Mr. A. M. Hoddling. A treasure hunt for boys on bicycles was also arranged and won by Gerald Welcker, Victoria.

The defence plan has helped industry in all channels, Mr. Diggon said, although a large number of the working people were paid less than they were entitled to.

Economy

Don't let anyone tell you that all eight-cylinder cars are costly to operate... BECAUSE THAT ISN'T SO. Gasoline consumption depends on the size and type of the eight-cylinder car, it depends on the size of the cylinders and many other details. The Ford V-8 was introduced because the V-type motor is the world's best engine. Only the most costly cars have had this type of motor... and they have had them for many years. The secret of Ford success is in being able to produce this smoother, more powerful motor at the lowest price and also making it the most economical car in Ford history. Before you buy a new car... drive a Ford V-8 and your judgment will tell you it's the car that you should own.

Three Speakers Support Gordon

M. J. Coldwell, Angus MacInnes and Grace MacInnes at C.C.F. Rally

Three members of the C.C.F. who had traveled 2,500 miles to the support of J. King Gordon, candidate in the federal by-election here, spoke at a large campaign meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday evening.

"The C.C.F. is the only real opposition in Parliament. On vital issues, old-age pensions and nationalization of banking, every Liberal and Conservative voted against our resolutions," declared M. J. Coldwell, M.P. for Rosetown-Biggar, Saskatchewan.

"I got the largest majority west of the lakes, despite the fact that my Liberal opponent had spent a year talking about nothing else but the Oriental franchise," said Angus MacInnes, M. P. for Vancouver East.

"If you have something wrong with your pipes, you call in a plumber. If you have something wrong with your horse, you call in a veterinarian. But if you have to select a man to make laws for this country, choose someone with experience." Mrs. Grace MacInnes said in appealing for the election of Mr. King Gordon.

Beside the candidate, and the three who have left the House in Ottawa, Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the C.C.F. Opposition in the Provincial Legislature, was on the platform, and Alfred Carmichael was in the chair.

THREE PROBLEMS
Today Canada faced grave problems, Mr. Coldwell said, the problems of unemployment, railways and the prairies. During the four months the House had been in session not one of these problems had been faced. A commission "out of touch" with the situation and headed by the president of the Canadian branch of a great world monopoly, had been set up to study the question of unemployment.

The member for Saskatchewan described the work of the C.C.F. legislators in the House. Every day they had taken part in every debate. He drew attention to the fact that over a period of years $12,000,000 had been spent on relief while in the same period $122,000,000 had been spent on defence.

"For every $4 we spend to maintain life, we spend $3 to prepare to destroy it," he said.
The C.C.F. resolution to lower pensions to sixty and increase them to $50 a month, after two days debate, had been ruled out of order. When Woodworth challenged the ruling, every Liberal and Conservative in the House voted against it, he said. The C.C.F. resolution to nationalize the Bank of Canada had also been ruled out of order and again when challenged had been voted down by Liberals and Conservatives.

McGeer and Tucker, two Liberals who had said some nasty things about the government in the House, had been told in caucus that if they wished to continue to embarrass the government, they could get over on the other side of the House, Mr.

Coldwell said. Ever since, their silence had been eloquent.

"When an industry has reached the stage of a monopoly, it should be taken over by the government," the speaker declared and pointed to the example of Sweden who had financed her old age pensions by taking over the tobacco and the liquor industries and now proposed to take over gasoline.

"Is a gasoline a monopoly here?" asked Mr. Coldwell. Seventy-eight per cent of the oil in Canada is controlled by the Imperial Oil—or, give it its right name, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey."

As national treasurer, the Saskatchewan member said the C.C.F. had $1,500 for their entire campaign last year. They had wanted to put Woodworth on the air in a national hook-up just once but found it would cost them $2,500.

Mr. MacInnes said, Leon Ladner had in a recent campaign speech when he had accused Woodworth of wanting more Orientals in the country. The C.C.F. had proposed a resolution excluding Orientals from Canada, but had been voted down by the Liberals and Conservatives. Why did these men want Orientals brought in here? Because they represented the men who desired to exploit them, he declared.

Mr. King Gordon spoke briefly on the Liberal party's proposal to abolish relief camps. Only 10,000 of the 20,000 interned in these camps would receive work on the railway at 25 cents an hour. What were the other 10,000 doing to do? What would the 10,000 do after the four months' work was over? They would not have much money to tide them over the winter, because he had just received a telegram from the Minister of Labor at Ottawa stating that they would have to pay part of their way back and most of them would be working in far-away places.

There was a $2,000,000 works relief scheme coming up in British Columbia, he said. Did the people realize it cost $3,500,000 to operate the relief camps alone in the province "for one year."

NEW STYLE FIRM OPENS TOMORROW

Mme. Runge, Well-known Vancouver Fashion Firm, Opens Victoria Branch

Victoria's newest fashion shop, Madame Runge's, Fletcher Block, Douglas Street, will be officially opened tomorrow morning.

The Vancouver branch of this firm is very well known, both for the beauty of the store itself, and for the beauty and quality of the fashions in which the firm specializes.

The Vancouver store is one of the very few in the mainland city equipped with air-conditioning. Fashionable residents of Vancouver have much praise for the beautiful effect produced by a fountain in the middle of the main floor.

Though fashions of very modest price are included in the Madame Runge stock, the store will specialize in garments of very superior quality. Two or three times a year Madame Runge pays visits to New York and Montreal to make a personal selection of the latest styles offering in those metropolitan centres, and, once a year, she makes a trip to Europe to buy among the select couturiers of Paris and London.

The Victoria store would be conducted along the same lines of policy as the Vancouver store, Madame Runge said today. The local branch will have the advantage of two stocks to draw upon and the advantage of increased buying facilities on the part of the firm itself.

The supervisor of the fitting department is a woman of first-class European experience, but the rest of the staff of the new store has been chosen entirely in Victoria in conformance with the idea that Victoria salesgirls are best equipped by local experience to provide the sort of service demanded by fashionable Victorians.

Madame Runge's in Vancouver is perhaps the largest specialty shop west of Toronto. The high standards of quality, both in merchandise and in service, maintained by the firm in Vancouver for the last thirteen years will be rigidly observed in the Victoria branch, Madame Runge indicated.

The southern half of the Fletcher Bros' store on Douglas Street has been tastefully redecorated for the new firm in a handsome color scheme of cream, white and rose. The fashions presented will appeal not only to the youthful but also to the matronly type. They will consist of dresses, coats, suits, sports hats, knitwear and gloves.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

Arrival, 100 years ago, of Yankee pioneers in the old Oregon territory, which comprises Washington, Oregon, and Idaho, and portions of Montana and Wyoming, is to be commemorated by a new 3-cent stamp. First day sales will be at Walla Walla, Wash., and Lewiston, Idaho, in connection with the Oregon Territory Centennial celebration. Description of the stamp and date of issue will be announced later.

Besides the potato tax stamps, the collector of internal revenues at Washington, D.C., is selling silver tax stamps, in denominations up to $10, to collectors. The sale will continue to July 1, on a "run of the mine" basis.

Use of the Dionne quintuplets as subjects for a new stamp issue by Canada is being urged by dotting stamp collectors. But there is hardly a possibility that such a stamp will be issued.

The U.S. Post Office department has decided to issue a miniature "souvenir sheet" of stamps in connection with the International Philatelic Exposition in New York early in May. Since the Rhode Island stamp is expected about that time, it may also be issued in this small sheet form, probably six to the sheet.

Another proposed stamp that would have international significance is one Italian collectors are asking their government to issue. It would be a "sanctions" stamp, commemorating November 18, 1935, when the League of Nations imposed sanctions on Italy.

Can Overcome Difficulties

Garland Anderson Tells Kiwanians Everything Depends on Attitude

"Stumbling-blocks and stepping-stones are one and the same thing; it all depends on how you react to them" was the theme of Garland Anderson, negro philosopher, playwright and psychologist, in an address to the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon yesterday on "Mastering Difficulties."

"The greatest difficulty which we have to overcome is our belief in it. The fact that we give a difficulty that status in our thinking makes it remain difficult. The instant you label a thing a difficulty you are letting it master you," he said.

Speaking of the application of practical Christianity in everyday business life, not just as something to be remembered on Sundays and forgotten for the rest of the week, Mr. Anderson said: "I firmly believe Jesus Christ was the most practical man that ever lived."

"I believe the teachings of Jesus Christ include a practical approach to every apparent business problem that comes up in everyday life," he said.

Mr. Anderson quoted from his own experience in support of this belief.

He told how as a switchboard operator he started to work on his pay amid constant interruptions. By changing his own attitude he made the interruptions become blessings instead of annoyances.

He urged the wisdom of applying the old saying that "honesty is the best policy" not for any moral reasons but as a practical means of self-preservation.

"It is just as natural for a person to be successful relying on the truth as for night to follow day," he said.

COMMON SENSE DANGER

Mr. Anderson found common sense could be a dangerous thing because it was inclined to make a man try to present his case in the best light possible instead of relying on wisdom of God, which he had in him.

What reliance on the inner wisdom could do to a man was illustrated by Mr. Anderson in telling a story of a Scottish salesman whose sales continued to rise while all the other men's fell off. They found in the end that he was a half-wit who had never heard of the depression, and because he did not know there was any such thing he continued to sell.

"I do not think there is any difficulty in business that you cannot master if you have belief in your own self," he said.

In answer to questions from members of the club Mr. Anderson defined his idea of success as "self expression and unselfish service to your fellow men." He added: "There is no reason for being a failure in this modern world if you use the wisdom that God gives."

Mr. Anderson was introduced by William Lunney, president of the club, and thanked by Rev. E. F. Church.

CENTENNIAL Y.P.S.

The Centennial Young People's Society held their last meeting of the season Tuesday evening in the church parlor with the president in the chair. Plans were completed for the annual picnic to be held Saturday afternoon at Witty's Lagoon, Esquimalt. Cars will leave the church at 2:15 in the afternoon and 6:30 in the evening. The devotional period was conducted by Florence Murkar taking part, Rev. C. G. MacKenzie gave a farewell message to the young people, taking his text from Timothy I, first chapter. The meeting closed with a short recreational period led by Dorothy Harris and Bill Deaville.

President Franklin Roosevelt began his philatelic collection when he was eight years old; and it is now believed to be one of the most valuable collections of stamps in the United States.

Converter aisle—the largest in the world—in the International Nickel Company's smelting plant at Copper Cliff near Sudbury, Ontario.

BLASTED FROM THE MINE, crushed to a powder, bathed in water to settle out the rock particles, roasted, melted, refined, the rugged ore from Canada's Nickel mines is finally transformed into that silvery, rust-proof metal used in your new Monel Metal Sink.

It takes 10,000 tons of ore each day to satisfy the capacity of the giant smelting and refining plant near Sudbury. Fifty million dollars were expended but a few years ago to enlarge and modernize this plant—$7,200,000 paid in direct wages alone. The converter aisle illustrated above is the largest in the world.

And still expansion continues. Additions now under way will cost eight millions more. For as the research and sales departments of this great Canadian industry develop new uses, the demands for Nickel continue to grow. In steel for bridges, locomotives, automobiles, tractors; in cast iron for machinery and equipment, Nickel imparts greater strength, longer wear. It is alloyed with bronze, chromium and other metals to produce many desirable properties.

Monel Metal, containing two-thirds Nickel and one-third copper, has solved scores of problems in industry and homes. Meat packing and canning plants use it because it is rust-proof, corrosion resistant, long-wearing, and does not harbour stale flavours. Laundries use it because it will not stain or harm the wash. In hotel and restaurant kitchens it has proved to be the most satisfactory material over a period of twenty-five years.

Certainly Monel Metal is the ideal material for the sink and working surfaces of your kitchen. It has the enduring beauty of silver. It harmonizes with any colour scheme. It is the lifetime metal and its price is surprisingly low.

Write for your free copy of "The Story of Nickel" an interesting booklet dealing with the history and development of Nickel.

WOMEN HEAR MRS. A. WATT

Former Victorian Addresses Washington Convention of Rural Women

Associated Press.
Washington, June 3.—Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., England, formerly of Victoria, Canadian president of the Associated Country Women of the World, today urged country women to "shed that inferiority complex."

Making a presidential address, Mrs. Watt said the house mother should be the one to decide what she wanted in foodstuffs and clothing for the good of her family.

"We must reverse the present system," she said. "The cook is now servant of the gardener. Make the gardener the servant of the cook."

Mrs. Watt contended country women were well able to think out nationwide standards for production and consumption. In keeping with this view, she suggested as subjects for the next country woman's study "Use of Natural Resources in the Farm Home."

Already the organization has made five studies of broad subjects of interest to the country women. The one presented today was "Food in its Relation to the Country Home," a book compiled from all participating countries.

In the resources study, Mrs. Watt said she would lay stress on handicraft.

Those in the organization interested in the freedom of trade, she said, "would like to see country women all over the world enjoy the fruits of each other's labor."

One of the never-to-be-forgotten highlights for the delegates was a tour of the White House yesterday, personally conducted by its gracious chaitaine, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The delegates met their hostess in the public reception room where hang the portraits of the illustrious George Washington and his wife. From there she escorted them to the green room, hung with portraits of various other presidents, to the blue oval room, the former cabinet room, where the Spanish-American Treaty was signed in 1898, and to the historical room where Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, freeing the slaves.

Mrs. Grundy Recalled At Hudson's Bay Style Show

Bathing Suits of Nineties Contrasted With Swim Suits of Today at I.O.D.E. Summer Revue

That mythical but once-dreaded censor of the nineties, Mrs. Grundy, was recalled for a few brief moments yesterday afternoon at the Hudson's Bay Company's summer style show, when a parade of "old-timers" introduced the voluminous, pantalleted and ugly, if modest, costume adopted by the woman bather of that day.

This group of "old-timers," modelled by the charming young mannequins who later doffed the ancient costumes to appear in the brief and backless swim suits of today, included swimming suits of 1890, 1900, 1910 and 1920, and the large audience of women laughed with amusement as they cavorted in to the strains of tunes of that bygone era.

TAILORED MOTIF

Beach togs, sports frocks and summer wear is evidently to be strictly tailored, essentially workmanlike and unusually attractive this year. Sports frocks have adopted the shirt-waist influence, with high turnover tailored collar, pleats, belts and short sleeves.

Sleeves, though short, are often cuffed, although more frequently merely pleated. In one or two instances absolutely sleeveless styles were shown. Buttons, large, medium and small, and usually of boldly contrasting color, are much worn on all these sports styles, even tennis shorts having them. The mannish style influence in one case extended to the introduction of a generous-sized hip pocket on a pair of shorts.

Materials are lovely in color, combining this with an uncrushable quality which is a boon among them being sharkskin, spunshair, printed crashes, velvet-corduroy and Paisleys.

STRIKING MODELS

Among the most striking of the sports frocks was a primrose crepe trimmed with green and brown enamel buttons, and worn with a natural Leghorn hat; a bluish pink linen crepe, with contrasting wine-colored buttons and a pink ribbon hat, worn by Miss Grace Stuart; a turquoise blue crepe worn by Miss Kay Miles; the hat of fine-weave Meadow Brook; a geranium pink crepe dress worn by Miss Clark; a cotted pink spunshair, buttoned from throat to hem and worn with a black Sisole straw hat; a very smart azure blue novelty crepe, braided and buttoned with navy, and worn with one of the smart little navy blue silk Breton sallores.

CULOTTES NEW

Culottes, a clever form of divided skirt, are the newest things for golf, tennis, hiking and general sports wear, permitting the greatest freedom of movement for the athletic girl. Among the very smart and well-cut examples shown was one in cream flannel, another in a searlet pique in "Tom Boy" style with navy and red chin-chucker scarf, and in sear-sucker or crinkly cotton. These were modeled, respectively, by Miss Eileen Clark, Miss Thelma Ackerman and Miss Marian McElmick. Other attractive designs were that in natural-linen crash, worn with string-knit pullover, by Miss Georgina Dowd, and one in green Paisley print that evoked much applause.

Beach ensembles are particularly attractive, one of the most striking of this double-duty type being that worn by Miss Thelma Ackerman. Of a gay floral print, it included a pair of shorts, an abbreviated, backless bodice, destined for sunbathing, and a detachable skirt. With it she wore an enormous sunhat of straw.

Some of the beach ensembles shown had sleeveless coats, buttoned all the way down the front, that answered the same purpose by making a conventional sports dress when worn over the shorts. Sun suits were shown in many attractive styles.

"SHIRLEY TEMPLE" MODELS

Styles for the very young set were gracefully modeled by June Gibson, Joyce Stocker and June Stocker. They first appeared in charming "Shirley Temple" frocks, one in pretty blue organdie, another in white, and a third in turquoise blue; (Turn to Page 9, Col. 8)

MRS. L. A. GENGE IS HONORED

Victorian Is Presented With National I.O.D.E. Life Membership Today

Mrs. L. A. Genge was signally honored at the annual meeting of the National Chapter I.O.D.E. in Winnipeg this morning, when she was formally presented with a life membership in the National Chapter, a gift from the Margaret 'Rocke Robertson and Gonzales Chapters of Victoria.

Mrs. Lumber, the national president, in a graceful little address of congratulation, made the formal presentation to the recipient, who was much surprised and touched by the unexpected honor, according to a wire received here this morning.

In making application for the life membership, the local chapters cited her qualifications as follows: "In recognition of her outstanding and generous service in the work of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, the Gonzales Chapter and Margaret 'Rocke Robertson Chapter wish to confer on Mrs. L. A. Genge (Gertrude Alice Genge) the honor of a National Life Membership."

"Mrs. Genge is a charter and life member of Gonzales Chapter (organized in 1912) in which she held the offices of first vice-regent for four years, and regent for four years. Through her efforts the Margaret 'Rocke Robertson Chapter was reorganized in 1928, when she was elected regent, which office she still holds.

"She was first vice-regent of Victoria Municipal Chapter 1927-31, and Regent 1931-35; in Provincial Chapter she has held the office of a vice-president, and for several years has been distinguished visitors convenor. She has also been a national councillor for several years.

"Mrs. Genge is a life member of Provincial Chapter and Victoria Municipal Chapter.

"She has not only given most unselfishly of her time and her service, but she has inspired and enthused many to give of their best to the work of the Order."

United Church Hospital Receives Donation From Camundongo Women

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 3.—A cash donation from women in Camundongo, Portuguese West Africa, is being used to buy a stretcher for the new Katherine H. Pitts Hospital at Bonnyville, Alta. It was received yesterday at a session of the Dominion board of the United Church Women's Missionary Society.

Hearing of the drought in Canada and wishing to express their appreciation of kindness shown them in time of famine, the Camundongo women sent a gift of $5. Mrs. C. Maxwell Lovels told the meeting, and it is being used in the Alberta hospital.

A summary of a survey made of Indian education in schools operated by the United Church recommended that during the next ten years both day and residential schools should be continued. Pupils should attend day schools until they are twelve years old, then go to a residential school; it was felt.

The belief was expressed that all churches interested in Indian education and the Department of Indian Affairs should combine in the formation of a Canadian Indian handicraft guild. It was also recommended that a conference be called this year in western Canada to consider the whole economic foundation of Indian life.

This conference should be called by the Minister of the Interior and would be attended by representatives of other churches and the Department of Indian Affairs.

Establishment of a Bible school for women at Ch'agtu, West China, by the W.M.S., with Miss Martha Coutts, B.A., as principal, was noted.

With the coming of Dr. Sundar Dalkwid from India to take post-graduate work in medicine to fit her for further service in India, the society's scholarship students in Canada total four.

Suffragists Throw Socks At Senators
Canadian Press
Paris, June 3.—Women, campaigning for the right to vote in France, threw hundreds of pairs of socks on the heads of the senators in Parliament yesterday.

Pinned on the socks tossed from the galleries were notes bearing such legends as "Even if you give us the right to vote, your socks will be darned."

Courteous guards ousted the women.

CHAPTER I

Linda Bourne hurried home through the April twilight of that day that was to prove so fateful. A few weeks more, she thought, and the grey bushes would burst into yellow bloom. April was a nice month, but May would be nicer. That was all right; it was exciting to think of what was ahead. In May the lilacs would blossom, opening their hearts to fill the air with heady perfume. And sometimes the birds sang at night. The moon would be round as a silver dollar on the twentieth.

"Wilda's party (thus Linda's thoughts flew) 'is on the twentieth. I will sit on the terrace with Dix and feel the broadcloth of his sleeve beneath my hands that get hot and cold when I think of him. Oh, Dix... my lamb with tawny hair and fierce eyebrows that grow so straight across your brow. You haven't an aristocratic nose at all, and your mouth is sensual, but you are an aristocrat, and you aren't sensual. You're divine..."

The dance would be her seventeenth date with Dix. Seventeen since the night of the Glee Club concert. The concert at Adelphi Hall, and the tawny-headed boy humming Neapolitan love songs lustily in his own, untrained voice. And later, the waiter coming to tell her that "her grandmother" wished her to take supper in the alcove.

And in the alcove there was Dix, the low-headed singer.

"Hello, Red-dress," he said. "I didn't know any other way to get you away from that mob and I wanted to know you. I'm Dix—Dixon Cobb Carter. Will you have some chicken salad?"

Three silver cups, the highest awards of the entire exhibition, and five first prizes were carried off by Victoria philatelists at the Pacific-International philatelic exhibition and convention held last week-end at Bellingham, Wash.

The cups were all awarded to Gerald

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

"I've got to be honest with you, darling. All I've got to offer you is a $50 a week pay cheque and the kind of apartment that goes with it and a couple of hundred dollars in the bank. I'm crazy about my job and I'll work hard at it, but I don't suppose I'll ever be able to give you the things you have now—a beautiful home and servants and cars and expensive clothes. You're the most wonderful girl in the world, Toby, and if you'll give me a chance I'll spend my life trying to make you happy. If you think you could marry a sap like me, if you could—oh, Toby will you?"

She said, "Yes."

Poets have sung of such ecstasy. Musicians have set it to music. Toby and Bill had only the hum of the taxicab motor; it was enough.

He said presently, "I told you I'm only getting $50 a week now, but I think I can get a raise. I've been working for it and Blaine half-promised me—"

"Fifty dollars is a lot of money, Bill. I used to earn $15 and I lived on it. We'll get along in grand style."

That was the way it began. Linda had some definite ideas about how she hoped it would end. Where she didn't care. The farthest corner of the earth in a canvas tent would be all right with her, so long as it was at the end of a life spent with him.

Linda, on her way home from her errand at the Newton Blade office, turned into her own street—and her dressing came to an end abruptly. It was the appearance of her own home that startled her. The big house was ablaze with lights; the drive was filled with cars, yet only silence came from the house, and there were strangers standing on the wide porch.

Afterwards she couldn't remember who took her aside, telling her to be brave, to remember that her father could not have been in his right mind and—finally—that he was dead by his own hand.

And when she had escaped to her own room, she stared at herself in the mirror, shamed that she could not cry, yet realizing that she could not be untrue to herself. Linda Bourne did not love her father. She had tried to do so those years when the mother she faintly remembered had gone away with another man, leaving the tiny Linda alone in the big house with Calvin Bourne.

Linda thought of her mother then, and what manner of girl she must have been. She tried to picture her, here in the room that for so long had been her little world. A loveless world where—once Linda had remembered that her dolls loved her and asked her to help them and love them always. No one in all her life had asked for her love.

She had friends. She was popular. She danced well, rode well, played a good game of tennis and golf. She was an "organizer," a committee girl. That was the life she led, as leader of the little set that constituted young society in Newtown.

Wellburn of Victoria and Duncan for his outstanding collection of the stamps of Great Britain, beautifully mounted and written up by himself and elaborated with numerous historical documents relating to the early postal history of that country. The Bellamy Cup for the best specialized collection, and the grand trophy for the finest in the show are both kept by Mr. Wellburn. The third cup, the Eugene Church Memorial Trophy, however, is to be held by the Vancouver Island Philatelic Society for one year. It is given each year to a philatelic society when a member gains the grand trophy. Mr. Wellburn's collection has just received world recognition at the great New York International Stamp Exhibition, where it gained a bronze medal, a remarkable tribute when it is realized that twenty different nations had sent the pick of their philatelic treasures and that the total value of the stamps was $5,000,000.

R. M. Angus of Victoria was chairman of the committee of judges.

Harry Whittaker, provincial architect, carried off a first for a fine showing of Brazil, specialized, and W. J. Davey, another member of the local party, got a first for an interesting collection of stamps of the Hawaiian Islands, a remarkable achievement as Mr. Davey has only recently given his attention to this country.

Mr. Wellburn got another first for a frame of British Columbians.

The anniversary service of St. Saviour's Church last Sunday was attended by large congregations. Rev. F. V. Venables, the new incumbent, took the services alone. Rev. F. L. Stephenson through illness not being able to attend as arranged.

The choir rendered suitable music for Whit Sunday and anniversary services.

On Monday evening there was an entertainment and social evening in the parish hall, the room being crowded. A splendid programme was given. The ladies of the woman's auxiliary provided refreshments during the evening.

N. S. Fraser, the rector's warden, introduced the Rev. F. V. Venables in a few very appropriate words, he having known him thirty-five years ago. Mr. Venables replied that he pleased he was to be once more under the British flag. He told of his work in different parishes while in Canada and in the United States and felt honored in coming to St. Saviour's.

Rev. Allen Gardner, Rev. J. H. Payne and Rev. C. Lee wished Mr. Venables every success.

On the occasion, presented Mr. Willis with a cheque. She spoke of the love and affection in which he was held by the people of St. Saviour's parish and wished him every success in his new duties up the island. Mr. Willis thanked the people for their kindness and help while laboring among them.

Mrs. T. H. Evans, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mrs. Willis with a cheque. She spoke of the love and affection in which he was held by the people of St. Saviour's parish and wished him every success in his new duties up the island. Mr. Willis thanked the people for their kindness and help while laboring among them.

The light went out of the sky and Linda sat in the dark in that house of tragedy, forlorn in the thought that there was no one to think of her with sincere kindness and sorrow. Her world would be shocked, but it lacked tenderness.

One man was thinking of her. Pete Gardner, alone in the tiny room of the Newtown Blade, putting lazily on a battered pipe, contemplating his long legs, draped on an editorial desk, and thought of the girl who had been there a short time before.

Point by point, Pete Gardner, ace political reporter in the state by his own admission, reviewed his appraisal of the president of the local Junior League, daughter of the town's leading mill owner and leader of a set that had not yet discovered him. Pete knew girls, but not as many as would like to have known him. He had never known any like Linda. The Gardiners, mother and son, had lived on the wrong side of town ever since Mrs. Gardner, newly widowed, had put up the little sign that read "Plain Dressmaking." They still lived on the wrong side of town, in comparative luxury now; Pete made $40 a week.

Forty dollars wouldn't seem like much to a girl like Linda Bourne. Pete thought wryly. Not that it made any difference. If he were going to be interested in any girl it wouldn't be one like her.

His dream girl, faintly resembling Dietrich, Harlow, and Made Evans, floated through his mind, and he compared her with Linda as he remembered her. He wouldn't call Linda "pretty," but she had moments of breathless beauty, he thought, remembering the glow of an inner radiance that filled her grey eyes and lit up the features of her heart-shaped face. He remembered the sweetness of her mouth that was too large for prettiness. And he remembered the way her dark hair clung to her small head, escaping in tendrils curled like shadows on her cheek.

He liked her head, he decided, and the straightness of her back, the fine molding of her bones, and the strength in her slender hands as she sat at his typewriter doing the little piece about a Junior League bazaar. She was a thoroughbred, and Pete liked thoroughbreds. He was one himself.

The desk phone rang. Pete reached for it languidly.

"Hello Corbin!" It was The Blade's police reporter. "Cal Bourne shot himself in his office an hour ago. Tell Barrett I'm on the story, will you?"

Pete reached for his crumpled cigarette package, and thrust it back. Moved by an impulse he didn't stop to analyze, he took the stairs, three at a time. Somebody would have to tell that poor kid her old man had bumped himself off. Gently!

It was Linda, cool, dry-eyed, and white, who opened the door to him. She had forgotten him, but suddenly their meeting that afternoon in The Blade office came back to her.

"I'm afraid you'll have to excuse us, Mr. Gardner. And I must ask you to postpone our meeting this afternoon. A statement will be given to the newspapers."

She spoke before Pete had a chance to say anything, and for the second time within an hour she left him. This time he wanted to slap her face.

"That poor child!" Mrs. Gardner said to her son when she read an account of the funeral.

"Don't worry about that 'poor child.' She'll get along," Pete said coldly.

His mother laid aside the newspaper. "Do you know her, Peter?"

"Not socially, Mom." Then he told her about meeting Linda at the office the day of the tragedy, how he had gone to break the news to her and the reception she had given him.

"Well, son, she made a natural mistake, you want? Of course she thought you were just another reporter. I think—for your own sake—you should go and explain it to her."

"Do you?" Pete bit savagely on his pipe. "Maybe I will some warm night when I can do with a bit of cold."

But, whether he intended to or not, Pete Gardner went to call on Linda Bourne and found her sobbing, her head pillowed on the new grass.

He gave her his handkerchief and offered her his shoulder. She only knew that it was more comfortable than the grass and wiped her eyes on his handkerchief.

Complete Schedules For Softball League Play Released

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

WHEN the $3,000 open golf tournament is played at the Victoria Golf Club, July 27, 28 and 29, Victorians will witness one of the boldest players in the money ranks to-day in the person of young Byron Nelson, former Fort Worth railroad clerk, who topped Craig Wood, Paul Runyan, Henry Picard, Gene Sarazen and other big names with a seventy-two-hole score of 283 in the metropolitan open. Nelson is rated as a distinct threat in the United States open championship, which gets under way at Springfield, N.J., on Thursday.

Here is what H. Picard, present American open titleholder, has to say about Nelson:

"That Texan is a great gambler when it comes to making risky shots, who finished fifth in the Metropolitan open. Picard was Nelson's partner when the red-haired youngster turned in a brilliant sixty-nine in the second round at Quaker Ridge. Bold is hardly the word for it. He is downright reckless, but he has the skill to get away with it.

"I believe in going for everything within reason, but I weigh the odds in each case, take the lay of the ground into consideration, and get accordingly. If the pin is cut right on the edge of a deep bunker, I will play for the middle half of the green. If the flag is open, I'll take a whack at it.

"This wild buckaroo from Texas goes all out for the flag no matter how many hazards are around it. With Byron it's either a 3 or a 6. I surely admire the kid's nerve.

"Nelson can win the United States open if he gets the breaks but when he does miss one of those rash shots he's likely to drop a batch of strokes. Personally, I do not believe that such boldness pays in medal golf, but I'd hate to meet Byron at match play.

Nelson is a long wood-club player and a fine putter, but his recklessness extends to the green. He goes for every putt no matter whether the green slopes away from the approach. He charges right at the cup. If the ball rolls 'way past, it's just too bad. He's ready to risk losing two strokes to save one at any time.

"Byron has an upright swing that reminds me of Horton Smith's manner of pivoting. He has learned to fade his irons in at the pin."

Nelson, attached to the Ridgewood, N.J., Country Club, has been a professional for only two years.

Sarazen, who dropped to a seventh place tie with Vic Ghersi on the final day of the metropolitan open, is not yet quite satisfied with his driving. "Only once or twice did my tee shots have that old U.S. open feel," explains Sarazen. "My two rounds of 69 pleased me because I had to work like a dog for my scores. Nothing came easy, but that's the way I like to play on the eve of a major championship. My concentration is good, even if my execution isn't quite up to my Sandwich standard."

Runyan, third in the metropolitan open, showed the boys what to expect in the U.S. tournament when he lowered the Quaker Ridge course record to 67.

"Runyan is hot," comments Sarazen. "The little fellow outdrove big Ghersi in setting that course record. Paul's timing has to be perfect, though, with that hitchy swing of his. Runyan had sixteen putts of fifteen feet or less for the cup during his record round, and held four. That certainly is knocking them up there. I never heard of more accurate approach."

Knockout Play to Follow With Island Play-offs Staged Simultaneously

B.C. FINALS IN AUGUST

Well advanced along the regular league route, softball teams of Victoria looked for today's improvement in the weather to allow them to continue schedule play without further interruption.

Yesterday evening the first games on the regular list were rained out and will be played either next week or the week following officials stated today as they released the complete fixture list for the remainder of regular league play.

Various divisions in the Lower Island Softball Association are billed to wind up the schedules during the second and third weeks in July. The games having a bearing on the final standings will be played off following that date and knockout series will be opened immediately to give teams leading in the different divisions a continual set of games to keep them at the top of their form for the island play-offs which will be staged simultaneously with the last of the knockout fixtures.

ISLAND CHAMPIONS

The island champions must be named during the third week in August in order to clear the decks for the provincial finals by Labor Day. With a dozen games still listed, Brunson's Boys, present leaders in the A section race, hold only a narrow margin over their closest rivals, Silent Glows. Victoria Athletic Club is still in the running and the Jokers have a mathematical chance of coming through.

The complete schedules for the remainder of the regular league play follow:

Belmont Stakes Billed Saturday

New York, June 3.—The hard-luck horses of the year, William Woodward's Granville and J. E. Widener's Brevity, will attempt to shake off the jinx Saturday in the sixty-eighth running of the $25,000 added Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park.

Although rated among the best of the three-year-olds, neither has won an important race since the opening of the northern season. They both bowed to Bold Venture in hair-line decisions.

MATCH RACE FOR SEATTLE

Officials of Longacres Track Anxious to Have Indian Broom Appear

Vancouver, June 3.—Seattle is definitely in the field for an appearance by Indian Broom in at least one race this summer at Longacres.

During a pleasure trip to Vancouver over the week-end with Bill Edria, principal stockholder of the Washington Jockey Club, President Joe Gottstein officially announced that the Longacres organization will hang up a $5,000 purse for a special race at one and one-eighth or one and one-quarter miles for a contest between The Indian or Special Agent and some horse already in training in Washington or shipped to the course for the event.

Asked for further details of the conditions of the proposed test, Mr. Gottstein said, "There are none. If we find a three-year-old capable of extending Major Taylor's star we race at scale weights and if we find an older horse, why they simply compete on a weight for age basis."

As an added gesture of good faith in the proposed match race, Mr. Gottstein stated that he would endeavor to make it a sweepstakes affair with each owner paying $5,000 to start, the association adding another $5,000 and the entire purse of $15,000 to be awarded the winner.

GARSMEN MEET

A general meeting of the J.B.A.A. garsmen will be held at the club headquarters at the Gorge on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend.

—By John Hix

DEATH-DEALING GOLF BALL

It is reported by W. C. Buckmaster, U.S. Bureau of Fisheries foreman, that while he was in charge of the Glacier Park Substation in August, 1929, he was awakened shortly after midnight by a loud pounding noise coming from the fish hatchery.

"On investigating I found the water shut off from two lines of troughs containing trout fry. Taking the line apart I found a golf ball wedged in it. During the time the water was shut off, while I was taking the pipe down and removing the ball, 74,000 trout were smothered out of about 100,000."

TOBACCO CONTRIBUTIONS

Early Virginia colonists, having no money, were forced to establish a standard of value. Selecting the chief product of the settlers—tobacco—a law was passed by the assembly establishing it as legal tender. Practically all transactions were accordingly carried on with "tobacco money" and records show that ministers of the gospel accepted salaries and contributions in tobacco. It was even used to pay taxes.

LARGEST BRICK BUILDING

Burma's Mingun pagoda is the largest mass of brick work in the world. Resting on a platform 450 feet square, it has a total height of over 100 feet.

Originally intended to be 500 feet high but never completed, it was built at the command of Bodawpaya, Burmese King, using forced labor. Work was discontinued on it shortly before 1819 and it suffered severe damage from an earthquake in 1839.

Carnera Out in New York State

New York, June 3.—Bill Brown of the New York State Athletic Commission announced yesterday that Primo Carnera would not be allowed to participate in further matches in the state of New York as a result of his recent showing against Leroy Haynes at Ebbsfield Field and other dismal bouts.

Brown said a similar ban had been placed against Isadore Gastanga, Cuban heavyweight, at yesterday's meeting.

The commissioners were dissatisfied with the showings of the two boxers, Brown said.

Homes Score Win in Lacrosse Loop

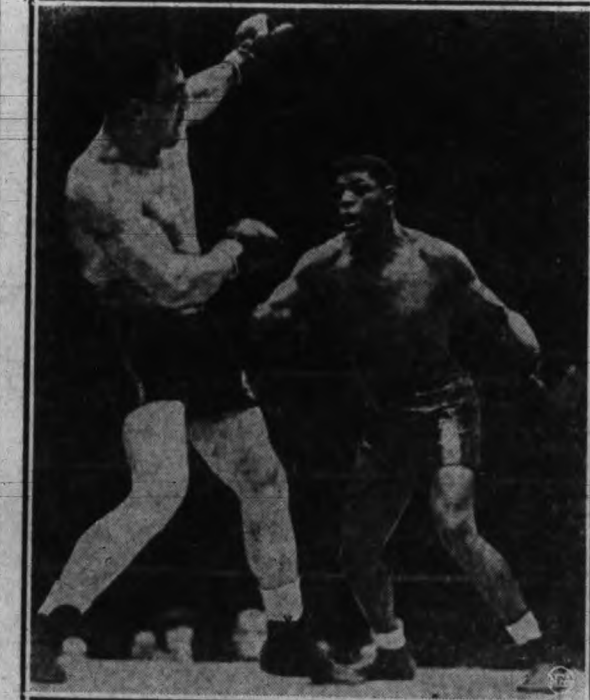

Vancouver, June 3.—Scoring four goals in the two overtime periods, Homes yesterday evening eked out a 16 to 12 win over New Westminster Salmonbellies to go into a tie with New Westminster Adanacs for third place in the Inter-city Box Lacrosse standings. It was the first overtime game of the season.

Postpone Match At Oak Bay Links

The team match between squads headed by the president and captain scheduled at the Victoria Golf Club on Saturday has been postponed. It was announced today by Capt. J. V. Perks, secretary. The event is always followed by a dinner.

HAYNES CUTS ONE LOOSE

"Duck, Primo, duck!" Wide open for the looping left-hand blow with which Leroy Haynes, Philadelphia colored heavyweight, threatens him, badly battered Primo Carnera sways awkwardly and unheeding shortly before he quit in the ninth round of their bout at Brooklyn, N.Y. The technical knockout was the second Haynes has scored over the former heavyweight champion in three months.

Expect Big Entry For Police Shoot

Barney Ross Is Still Improving

Chicago, June 3.—If Barney Ross ever reaches his full growth—watch out, you would-be welter-weight champions.

Ross, world's welterweight titleholder at twenty-seven, is not thinking of retiring. In fact, he is now tentatively booked for five fights, and says he is certain he has not reached his fistic peak.

"I can feel myself improve," he said today.

PEDENS LEAVE FOR TORONTO

Doug, Eleanor and Ernie and His Wife Travel East by Automobile

With their aim the Olympic Games in Berlin, six members of Victoria's Peden family will gather in Toronto this summer to undergo extensive training in the hopes of being in the ranks of those who will represent Canada in the bicycle and swimming events.

Doug and Eleanor Peden and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Peden left this afternoon en route to the Ontario city. They will travel through the United States by automobile and expect to reach Toronto in about ten days.

In Toronto this foursome will join the ranks of those members of the Peden clan now gathered there, which includes Torchy Peden and Claude Peden, who left Victoria over two years ago, preparatory to taking up bike riding as his future career.

Doug and Ernie and Claude hope to gain berths on the team that will compete for Canada at the Olympics. Ernie, if not successful, will return to Victoria in the fall with his wife.

Doug, like Claude, anticipates making his career through bike riding. His present intention is to keep within the amateur ranks this year and probably next year. He then hopes to be able to team-up with Torchy in the professional six-day grinds.

He stated today he does not expect to be back in Victoria next year to play for the Victoria Dominions basketball team. Yesterday evening, at a banquet held in the Dominion Hotel, members of the team wished him every success in his latest sports venture.

Eleanor Peden, one of Victoria's leading women swimmers, intends to take up the sport seriously in Toronto and hopes to get to Montreal, where aquatic stars who will compete for Canada in Berlin will be chosen. Miss Peden will try for the 200 and 400-metre dashes.

Doug and Ernie will be under the careful eye of Torchy when they go through their training in the Ontario city. Doug is in excellent shape and should advance, in time, to be one of the continent's leading bike riders.

U.S. TITLE GOLF OPENS

Sam Parks Jr. Starts Defence of Open Championship Tomorrow

Springfield, N.J., June 3.—They are going to stick the king of clubs, Samuel McLaughlin Parks Jr., back in the deck tomorrow and he does not expect to be lost in the shuffle before the last deal is made at Sunday on Saturday—the finale of the fortieth United States open golf championship.

Parks is not the gambling type of player nor is he the betting fraternity's choice. It was the same at his native Oakmont course a year ago when he confounded the old guardmen of the pro ranks by shooting 289 to capture the open title—a 100 to 1 shot came through.

Tommy Armour, one of the craftiest of the oldsters, thinks highly of the youthful Pittsburgh pro's chances in the championship.

It is an annual custom to feel sorry for the defender in an open championship. Parks does not share his grief, nor does he regard this as his party.

BUS PARTY TO RETURN HERE

Arrangements Made for Entry of Coach; Mississippi
Train Party Coming

In spite of difficulties last year in connection with the license fee for their chartered bus, Arthur T. Evan, Professor of Botany at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and a party of thirty-six students will be back in Victoria next month.
The fees charged for the entry
of the bus were eventually refunded
last year through the efforts of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. The bureau has just received notification from the Department of Information of the British Columbia Government that arrangements have been made with the Provincial Police this year to facilitate the entry of the bus, which will reach Sidney on Sunday, July 19.

The bureau has also been advised of a visit to be made here on Tuesday, July 28, by members of the Know Mississippi Better train tour party. The group will be in the city for an hour and a half, between boats, and will be entertained at a luncheon at which civic officials will speak.

The Know Mississippi Better train is the longest Pullman special in the world. In the last fifteen years it has traveled over 75,000 miles in United States and Canada on its annual tour.

The train carries a special car
displaying the products of the state of Mississippi. It serves both to carry tour parties of distinguished citizens of the state and to publicize the state in other parts of the continent.

Former Governor Dennis Murphree is heading this year's tour. The last visit made by a Mississippi party to this city was in 1928.

B.C. HIT BY SENATE ACT

Province Planned Sales Tax
in Fall to Help City Treasuries

The fate of the British Columbia Government's plan to levy a sales tax in the fall as a means of raising funds to aid municipal treasuries appeared to hang in the balance today when the Senate decided to reject proposed constitutional amendments giving provinces the right to collect certain indirect taxes.

However, the provincial treasury,
while deeply concerned, believed it could find a solution.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, said:
"That creates a new problem for us. It is now a question, I suppose, of what the House will do. However,
if it becomes the final action it will make us take another step instead of the one we were contemplating. We are not disappointed about it."

It had been proposed that the provincial government use the revenue from a sales tax to assist the municipalities in the fall. Mr.
Hart's statement was taken to indicate that if this is impossible,
other ways of meeting the municipal situation will be found, fulfilling the promise made by the government.

Mr. Hart was a prominent factor in fighting for indirect taxation rights for the provinces. His brief
to the Dominion-Provincial Conference on this matter was largely accepted. It proposed that such levies
as the gasoline taxes and other questionable taxes imposed by the provinces be confirmed and that additional power be given to collect a retail sales tax.

Many fires due to lightning

Lightning storms and hot, dry weather resulted in some sixty forest fires in British Columbia last week,
according to forest branch reports.

In the Vancouver forest district,
which includes Vancouver Island,
there were ten outbreaks. Kamloops area was worst hit with twenty-eight and the Nelson district had seventeen.
The forest branch reports the number of fires this year up to the end of May as 153, compared with 205
last year and 183 in 1934.

EMMANUEL BAPTIST Y.P.U.

A well-attended meeting of the First and Emmanuel Baptist Young People's Unions, formerly scheduled for Cadboro Bay, was held in the schoolroom of Emmanuel Church last night. The first part of the meeting took the form of a sing-song, followed by a short devotional. Prof. E. S. Farr spoke on "The Two Services, Spiritual and Social, of the Church." He stressed the social distresses of the unemployed and the Oriental. Mr.
Farr showed how the former would influence young people, and how the young people as they grew up would influence the latter. The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his address. Refreshments were served.

ROSE GROWING
IS DESCRIBED

George Nunn, Vancouver, Gives Talk to Victoria Horticultural Society

The cultivation of roses was described to members of the Victoria Horticultural Society by George Nunn, rose grower of Vancouver, at the society's monthly meeting in the City Hall yesterday evening.

Roses should be planted well away from trees, Mr. Nunn said, so that they would have the maximum amount of air and sunshine. Whenever it was possible they should be set out in the southwest part of the garden.

Planting should be undertaken in the spring, Mr. Nunn said, as winter was likely to kill off a number of new bushes.

Proper pruning was essential and this should be done in March. In pruning there were different methods
for the exhibition plant as compared with the rose for general utility purposes in the garden.

Roses needed a well-prepared soil,
and Mr. Nunn recommended digging
two feet down and using old cow manure which should be covered with sods. For greatest success the young rose should be planted two inches below the surface. Where cow manure was not available, the speaker suggested the following fertilizer as a substitute: Superphosphate of lime, 12; nitrate of potash, 10; sulphate of manganese, 2; sulphate of iron, 1, and sulphate of lime, 8.

In spraying roses a home-made solution of quarter of a cake of naphtha, a teaspoon and a half full of black leaf "40," to a gallon of water was excellent.

Cultivation with a hoe during the summer was the essence of success, Mr. Nunn said. Sprinkling was useless in watering roses. They needed a good soaking.

D. D. McTavish, president of the society, was in the chair.
The winners of the monthly vegetable competition were as follows: 1,
K. M. Scott; 2, D. Snobelen.

Defence in Nanaimo Accident Deny Its Responsibility
for Crash

Evidence for the defence was called this morning in the Supreme Court before Mr. Justice
Murphy in the $15,000 damage
action lodged on behalf of Lily
Barnes against Albert Ernest Bradshaw, Nanaimo miner.

The claim is made as the result of an accident in which a motorcycle on which the girl was a passenger collided with a car driven by Bradshaw.
As the result of the accident the girl, who was a former junior tennis champion of Victoria, suffered a broken ankle which has left her a cripple.

The defendant, his wife, Mrs. E. M.
Bradshaw, and his daughter, Mrs. I.
Spruston, all of whom were passengers in the car at the time of the accident, gave evidence this morning.
The defendant, they said, was driving between twelve and eighteen miles an hour at the time of the collision.
He was on his right side of the road and gave a proper turning signal, they testified. One motorcycle passed Bradshaw at high speed, they said, and then the one on which the plaintiff was a passenger, followed, and in attempting to pass, struck the left front fender of the car.
The case is proceeding.

WORK ON WEST COAST ROUTE

Appropriation for the Jordan River Highway This Year;
Trail May Be Widened

Another step in the construction of the West Coast Road, the ocean highway from Victoria, will be made this year by the provincial government, it was learned today.

Last year the government had a pack trail built from the end of the existing road into Port Renfrew, a distance of eighteen miles.
In the new road programme being worked out by the provincial and federal governments will be an appropriation for the improvement of the section lying between Sooke and Jordan River. The amount was not divulged.

In addition to this plans are now being discussed for the widening of the trail built last year. It is expected something will be done on this section.

From some years the highway from Jordan River has been pushing ahead slowly, the work being done by men in the relief camps. Several miles have been constructed. The pack trail links the end of the road with Port Renfrew.

Reports received this morning by Roger Monteth say there is an exceptional run of bluebacks in Forster Pass, opposite Chemainus. They weigh from four to five pounds and the best lures are small spinner and abalon. A fresh run of steelhead trout is reported in the lower reaches of the Cowichan River.

Experimental Station,
Saanoichton

The party of twenty-five gardeners from the United States who are visiting Victoria this week, were entertained at tea at the Dominion Experimental Station, Saanoichton, this afternoon.
On the way out they dropped in on "Strangewood," the garden of Col. S. L. and Mrs. McMullen, at Gordon Head.

Due to the fact that a number of the gardeners have heard of "Inglebrook," home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waddell, arrangements are being made to include this Saanich garden
in an already-crowded programme.
This evening a lecture to be given by Fred Saunders, Empress Hotel gardener, has been arranged. It is understood that this meeting is to be thrown open to all members of hor-

SAANICH VISIT
GREAT SUCCESS

Jersey Herds Outstanding;
Party Continues to Gulf Islands

"Our visit to the Saanich Jersey herds was a great success," declared Jack Berry, animal husbandman at U.B.C., who is on the B.C. Jersey Breeders' annual outing which is taking place this year on the island.

"What struck me particularly was the way in which the breeders presented their herds," he said, "especially the placard information above
each animal."
Mr. Berry saw evidence of constructive breeding along family lines in the island herds. The quality of the cattle he had seen was outstanding and compared favorably with mainland Jerseys.

Though ten of the mainland members of the party had to return to their herds on account of flood waters, the rest of the party left Swartz Bay for the Gulf Islands this morning, where they spent the day visiting herds. W. S. Wainwright, Vancouver, vice-president, took charge of the party in the absence of the president, Acton Kilby, who was one of those forced to return to the mainland.

James Bremner, secretary of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, was among those who took the trip to the islands.

Stocks Inactive As Wall St. Traders Keep to Sidelines

New York, June 3.—The stock market had a weather eye out for squalls today, and, as a result, made little or no headway.

A fresh outbreak of labor disturbances in France, together with doubts regarding the outcome of the Senate tax controversy, were said to have kept many traders on the fence.

The close was irregular. Transfers were around 600,000 shares.

In one of the slowest sessions for some time only a few specialties managed to move ahead. Numerous issues were unchanged to off a point or so.

In addition to the political troubles of the French, the nervousness of the gold bloc countries was exemplified by the action of the Netherlands Bank in raising its discount rate from 3½ to 4½ per cent, the second boost in a week. The increase was for the purpose of stemming the gold outflow.

Owens-Illinois and Coca-Cola were up three and two points respectively, at their best. Warren Bros. and Cerro de Pasco were ahead one or so. Resistance was shown by Corn Products, American Can, Sears Roebuck, Canada Dry and Standard Oil of New Jersey. The rails, steels, motors and utilities were in the backward column.

Wheat was unchanged to a quarter-cent per bushel up, and corn was at the same as yesterday's finish to five eighths firmer. Beans were mixed.

Men Judge Women Too Often by Complexions

Says Wives Are Human Beings After All

MEN, God bless their simple souls and keep 'em that way, have a lot of queer superstitions about women. They believe, for instance:

That every pretty girl with large blue eyes is an innocent little angel who doesn't know what she is doing when she murders somebody, or is caught shoplifting; that it is mere childishness that makes her twiddle diamond bracelets out of them and buy 'er silk stockings and take her to the most expensive night club. Men judge a woman by her complexion, and not by her morals.

That once a woman loves a man she automatically goes on loving him no matter what sort of a cad he turns out to be or how badly he treats her. It never occurs to a husband that he can starve his wife's love to death by not giving it anything to live on; that she can get bored by him or just lose her taste for him; or that she may cease to thrill over him if he lets himself get dull and fat, commonplace and slouchy.

That a woman is perpetually grateful to her husband for saving her from being an old maid, and that just being married to him is all the happiness, diversion and excitement that any wife should crave.

That every girl has a domestic complex and is born with a knowledge of how to cook and make, and keep house. Every young husband gets the shock of his life when he finds out that his bride feeds him on food that would kill an ostrich and that the first sacrifice he has to lay on the altar of matrimony is his digestion.

That marriage completely changes a woman's disposition and character and habits; that it converts a sweet into a tart, turns a companion for a cultivated man; cures a shrew of her temper; turns a bossy girl into a Patient Griselda and inoculates a clothes-mad girl against all desire for new frocks and hats and makes her perfectly content to wear basement bargains.

That because they love two women, the women are just naturally bound to love each other. The most perfect example of optimism in the world is the artless belief of a young man that his mother and his girl, both of whom adore him and are jealous of his every thought and word, are going to fall on each other's necks with cries of joy instead of having out their knives for each other.

That when they marry their wives will fit right into their circles and chum up with their old cronies and realize how fine Bill is even if he is uncouth and what a good old scout Tom is when he isn't drunk. And especially that their wives will appreciate how good some other woman has been to them in the days when they needed somebody to sympathize with them and even to feed them and will serve her a warm welcome instead of a cold shoulder. They have never seen this hope justified, but still it springs eternal in the bridegroom's breast.

That women have no desire for financial independence and that their favorite indoor sport is begging for enough money to run the house on and get a new hat or a pair of shoes. A man knows that he would be humiliated beyond endurance in having to go to even the kindest and most generous of fathers for every cent, but he thinks women enjoy it.

That they support their wives and that a wife does not earn her own board and keep, no matter if she does toil like a slave, fourteen hours a day without even Sundays and holidays off.

The women are miracle-workers, who can run a house on air and conjure good meals, heat and light and service out of their sleeves. It is a perpetual amazement to a man how much it costs to support a family and he always feels that his wife is to blame for it.

That women are so peculiarly constituted that they never weary of baby-tending and cooking and scrubbing, and that they get all the kick they desire in life out of walking the domestic treadmill, giving the baby its bottle, wiping little Johnny's nose and settling quarrels between Tommy and Bill. They can't for the life of them see why a woman wants to go to the movies at night when she can stay at home.

That wives can forgive the unforgivable and forget it when their husbands have been untrue to them and have the same faith in them that they did before they were betrayed. Of course, they wouldn't expect a husband to treat his wife that way, but women are curious creatures that a man never understands anyway.

Queer, the curious superstitions men have about women, isn't it?

Uncle Wiggily and The Collection Dog

By HOWARD E. GARIS

One day as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, wondering what adventure he would have next, he heard a barking voice saying:

"Oh, dear! Isn't this too bad!"

"Dear me!" thought the rabbit gentleman. "That sounds like Jackie or Pussie Bow Wow, but still it may be the Fox, trying to fool me back. I made him run after ten-cent pieces."

So Mr. Longears peered around the corner of a tree and he was glad when he didn't see the Fox.

"It's a dog all right," whispered Uncle Wiggily. "but it is a strange dog. I never saw one like him before. He doesn't live around here, and I wonder what he is doing with that box he carries on his back."

The strange dog had a large box, with a hole in the top, strapped to his back as he limped along through the woods. And Uncle Wiggily watched from behind the tree he heard the dog say again:

"Dear me! Isn't it too bad!"

READY TO HELP

"Well, I think I can hop fast enough to get away from that limping dog," thought Mr. Longears. "But perhaps he is a good dog. At any rate he is in trouble and I ought to help him if I can." So Mr. Longears stepped out from behind the tree and asked:

"Who are you and what's the matter?"

"I am a collection dog," said the dog. "You see by the box on my back, I was the answer. And the matter is I am lost and I don't know how I am going to get home to finish my collecting."

"Collecting for what?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Collecting money to help take care of sick animals," said the dog. "You know this is Be Kind to Animals Week around here. Sometimes it's one week and sometimes it's another. It's the here now and I am out collecting money in this box on my back. You see, I see, but where were you collecting?"

"Oh, on lawn and down town and all over," said the dog. "My master is very fond of animals and he's going to build a shelter and a hospital for them. So he dressed me up as you see, put the box on my back and sent me along the streets. People see me and drop money in the box and at night I take it home. But I am far from home now."

"How did that happen?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

DOG EXPLAINS

"Well," said the dog as he sat down on a stump while Uncle Wiggily bound a leaf with some string around his waist. "I was standing on a street corner, and people were dropping money in my box when all of a sudden, along came an automobile."

"Maybe the driver didn't see me-I hope he didn't, for I wouldn't want to believe he did it on purpose-but, anyhow he ran over my paw. I was so surprised and hurt that I howled and made a big jump and I landed in the rumble seat of another auto that was passing."

"What a strange, sad accident," said Uncle Wiggily. "What happened after that?"

"Well," said the dog. "I guess I must have fainted or gone to sleep. The man in the second auto didn't see me and the first I knew I awakened and found myself here in the woods. I jumped out of the rumble seat and here I am. My master will think I ran away with the hospital money. Oh, what shall I do?"

"Come home and spend the night with me," invited Uncle Wiggily. "We'll talk it over in my bungalow. I think I know what to do."

And if the rubber ball doesn't drink out the water out of the bowl at there's none left for the goldfish. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the money box. (Copyright, 1934, by H. E. Garis)

Tarzan And Her Fire Gods

His nostrils quivered, his eyes darting alertly. Tarzan once more picked up Jerry's trail, greatly to Tommy's astonishment. But when he came to the fissure that Jerry had entered, he stopped short. "He went through here," he said gravely, "and a lion followed him!"

Tommy gasped as the ape-man continued: "I must hurry. You stay here. Get some sleep on that ledge. If I am not back by dawn, you may follow." Tarzan hurried on. He was relieved when he read evidence of the lion's retreat, but now he was determined to find Jerry.

At last he emerged from the Crater of Canaan. His flying feet took him to the Baalite village and on to the temple. There the wild wails and the strange light dictated caution. Swiftly, silently, he scaled the cliff that overlooked the Court of the Fiery Pillar.

With an astonishment rare for him, Tarzan saw Jerry Jones and the two girls being pulled toward the strange pillar. He judged immediately that they journeyed to their doom. Yet, strong and cunning as he was, how could he save these poor victims from that mad horde?
